HUNT FOR WOMAN 'BUTCHER'

Suitcases in Tragedy Lined With Pink and Blue Cretonne

The discovery of a third black suitcase containing a woman's clothing on the highway near Ayer, was one of the developments in the Merrimac River suitcase murder today.

Divers were also at work searching for the missing head and abdomen, and if they are unsuccessful the river will be drained.

While investigations along these lines were being carried out by the authorities, attention was called to the possibility that the person who treated the victim may have been a woman practitioner.

It was pointed out that all three suitcases were of the type that would have been selected by a woman. They are of imitation black seal with gaudy pink and blue flowered cretonne lining, such as no man would be apt to purchase.

WEDDING RING GONE.

When the first case containing the arms and torso was found, it was thought it might have been the property of the victim. The second case containing the legs, and the third

ITALY THREATENS TO QUIT LEAGUE

London, Sept. 4. (AP)—Italy will make her terms for the evacuation of Corfu more onerous if Greece delays in fulfilling the terms of his ultimatum, Premier Mussolini is quoted by the Daily Mail's Rome correspondent as declaring.

Rome, Sept. 4 (I.N.S.).—"I deny absolutely the competency of the League of Nations to meddle in affairs touching Italy's national honor," said Premier Benito Mussolini today. "I might even go so far as to say Italy would withdraw from the League of Nations."

Public opinion and the press are backing up the Premier's stand against league intervention.

Press censorship is holding up news of naval and military movements, but it is reported from Venice that the Greek yacht Aello fled from port after being attacked by motor boats. It is semi-officially announced that mines have been laid around Leros Island to prevent a Greek coup.

HUNT JESSE MURPHY FOR POLICE MURDER

Jesse Murphy, notorious convict, who was acquitted of killing Ordway R. Hall and Edward P. Foley, managers of Atlantic & Pacific tea stores, after a sensational trial here, is sought by the authorities at Monroe, Mich., for the murder of a policeman there on the morning of August 19. Captain Ainslee C. Armstrong of police headquarters has received a circular offering $500 reward for Murphy's arrest.

Jesse was last seen in this State on June 15, when he was released from Deer Island House of Correction.

On that date he was turned over to the Parole Board, who had a warrant charging him with escape from the Rutland prison camp. He was acquitted on this charge, then disappeared.

THIEF BY CLEVER TRICK GETS A WOMAN'S JEWELS

A clever jewel thief today made away with several thousand dollars worth of jewelry in the South Station by a new scheme.

A woman giving her name to the police as Leonora Lucas, of Evanston, Ill., came to Boston from the North Shore where she had been spending the Summer. At the South Station a white porter took her suitcases and carried them to the waiting room. She sat down to wait for her train.

A few minutes later a white man wearing a porter's cap appeared and told her her train was ready. Not noticing that he was not the porter she had just tipped, she gave the man her suit cases and started following him to the train. When he reached the crowd in the train shed he suddenly turned aside in the crowd and disappeared.

Hub Women in the Quake Zone

U. S. EMBASSY AND HUB WOMEN IN JAPAN

At top, Miss Florence Brown, of Newton, who, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Brown, was scheduled to reach Kobe, Japan, on Sunday. Their friends are worried over their safety. Inset, Professor Sophie Chantal Hart, of Wellesley College. She was last heard from in Yokohama. No word has been received from her since disaster swept that city. Below, the American Embassy in Tokio, reported destroyed by the earthquake and fire. (Photo by International Newsreel).

Shanghai, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The United States consul-general at Yokohama and his wife were killed in the disaster, according to radio messages from the steamship President Jefferson at Yokohama. The consul-general's name was Mr. Max Kirjassoff.

Tokio, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The American Embassy was destroyed here. Martial law prevails in the devastated area. Tokio is orderly, although outside relief is needed badly. Cyrus Woods, American ambassador, and all members of his staff were uninjured in the earthquake.

Child Killed by Bear

Los Angeles, Sept. 4.—Five-year-old Thelma Hollingsworth, daughter of Dick Hollingsworth, magazine editor, visiting a motion picture studio here, persuaded an attendant to admit her to that part of the lot where wild animal "actors" awaited their turn in front of the camera.

She died today of a basal skull fracture suffered when a half-grown bear struck her with its paw.

Quake-Crazed Thousands Leap to Death in River

Tokio, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—Innumerable bodies of earthquake victims are clogged in the River Sumida, which flows through Tokio.

Thousands of frenzied men and women, overcome with excitement and fatigue, went mad and threw themselves into the river when the shocks were occurring.

Thousands of others perished when the bridges across the Sumida River collapsed.

Famous Resorts Wiped Out; Fear Leading Japs Killed

Washington, Sept. 4. (I.N.S.)—All the principal Summer resorts of Japan apparently were wiped out in the great catastrophe, Japanese embassy said today after a study of press reports. Three of the empire's greatest resorts, housing the Summer homes of Japan's richest merchants, were in the group of cities reported destroyed.

A huge tidal wave, following the early earthquakes, was said to have completely inundated the cities with great

$250,000,000 LOSS IN TOKIO

Shanghai, Sept. 4. (A. P.)—Tokio still in flames, loss of life there alone at least 150,000, damage perhaps half a billion (about $250,000,000) These were the latest estimates received here this afternoon in a special despatch by the Eastern News Agency from Osaka loss of life. Embassy officials today feared for the lives of hundreds of the empire's most prominent citizens who are known to spend their Summers at country estates along the sea coast. The territory frequented by the wealthier Japanese, the embassy stated, appears to have been practically wiped out.

Other cities reported destroyed were:

Chiba, 33,000; Kawagushi, 14,000; Kofu, 56,000; Gotomba, 28,000; Koyama, 17,000; Mishima, 15,000; Atami, 8,000; Shimeda, 7,000; Ito, 12,000; Shizoka, 74,000; Nagoya, 430,000; Yokohama, 500,000 and Tokio about 4,000,000.

With scores of other towns situated in the devastated area, embassy officials believed fully 10,000,000 people were in the path of destruction.

They were fearful that ultimately the death toll will mount to hundreds of thousands of persons because of the crowded condition of the residential sections.

Shanghai, Sept. 4 (Wireless Universal Service).—With fires still raging unconfilled, the flames rising sky high, in Tokio, Japan's capital, and its neighbor city, Yokohama, the number of dead from quake, fire and flood in these two cities alone is now put at 500,000.

The Japanese News Agency here reported that besides the cities of Tokio and Yokohama that the cities of Kamakura, Odawara, Hachiki, Chiba, Kawaguchi, Kofu, Gotemb, Koyama, Michama, Atima, Ito, Yokosuka and Shimoda are completely ruined. Large naval bases were located at Yokosuka and Kamakura. They are a total loss.

Tons of dynamite are being used by troops in an attempt to stop the whirlwind of flames.

Two new earthquakes in Tokio today added to the horror and desolation.

Hundreds of lives were lost, while four hundred additional houses were razed. Thousands upon thousands of bodies are being piled in huge funeral pyres and cremated in order to prevent an outbreak of pestilence.

Property loss throughout the terror-zone will run into billions of dollars.

Japanese troops are being concentrated in Tokio and Yokohama from all parts of the empire to prevent continuance of vandalism which has been rampant in the stricken cities. The strictest martial law prevails.

Relief work is being actively carried on. Hundreds of thousands of destitute refugees are lining up in front of relief stations for meagre food rations.

The Japanese government has commandeered food, medical and building supplies and is conscripting thousands of coolies for rescue work under military supervision.

Rioguku, Azuma and Mumaya bridges, heavy traffic thoroughfares of Tokio, collapsed yesterday under the weight of thousands of fleeing refugees. Heavy loss of life resulted.

Islands Vanish Into Ocean

Hommoku and Isouo, Summer resorts, and the island of Enoshima, have been swept to their doom by a gigantic tidal wave. Thousands of lives were lost.

Bonin and Oshima Islands, off the Idzu Peninsula are reported to have disappeared.

The mountains Maonyama, Nogeyama and Iseiyama of the Idzu peninsula range, have crumpled as a result of a terrific upheaval.

Trans-Pacific liners President Jefferson of the U. S. Shipping Board fleet, and the Empress of Austria of the Canadian Pacific line, have not been heard from since the disaster.

An aviator flew over the town of Kamakura and reported that not a single house was standing. Odawara was destroyed by a tidal wave. The mountain of water left no trace of the city.

Chiba, at first reported somewhat isolated from the sweeping flames, is now reported as destroyed. It was one of Japan's "show places." It is situated on the outskirts of Tokio.

Japanese Minister of the Navy Takarabe, according to a wireless message reaching here, estimated the dead in Tokio at 150,000.

Two Princes of the royal house of Japan are dead—Prince Takehiko Yamashmi, who was killed when a building in which he had taken refuge collapsed, and Prince Tsunenori Kayo, who died in a similar manner. Prince Yamashmi's residence was among the buildigs destroyed by the quake.

Thousands of Victims Cremated

The impossibility of burying the thousands of dead has caused rescue workers to pile them up in the path of the flames which rapidly consume them.

The Imperial Palace, only partly destroyed, is being used as a rescue base and is crowded with as many of the helpless refugees as can get within its walls.

While no actual figures are obtainable as to the fate of the foreign population, it is known that hundreds of them have perished.

Messages gradually drifting in from wireless stations surrounding the stricken cities bring new tales of horrors and add to the growing impression that the number of dead will increase instead of decrease as definite news comes out of the Inferno.

Advices received here indicate that possibly a number of ships were sunk during the quake and tidal wave in Yokohama harbor.

Fear for Safety of Americans

The United States Shipping Board vessel, Selma City, was at anchor in Yokohama when the shocks occured. She was damaged but did not sink. She had on board 189 Japanese men, women and children, including her crew.

The Canadian Pacific liner, Empress of Australia, is safe at her pier in the same harbor though unable to move because of having lost her propeller during the quake and tidal wave.

Thousands of foreign refugees, including a few Americans, are reported to be without funds, shelter and food.

A message received here stated that Viscount Takahashi, former premier, and a score of prominent members of the Sei-Lukai party, the leading political party in Japan, were killed, presumably in the collapse of a building.

All towns and hamlets between Osaka and Tokio are reported in late dispatches to have been annihilated.

Warships are rushing from Kobe and Osaka to render aid.

The United States Asiatic fleet, in command of Admiral Anderson, is expected to reach the stricken area within twenty-four hours.

Many Towns Are Annihilated

Apprehension is felt for safety of Americans who are known to have left China for Japanese pleasure resorts. Hakone, a popular mountain Summer resort, which was destroyed, was the rendezvous yearly of many prominent wealthy Americans.

The Islands of Enosmina and Kamakura, picturesque Summer resorts within a few hours' ride of Tokio, are a mass of debris and mud caused by the tidal wave which followed the earthquake.

The seacoast town of Odawara, with a population of several thousand, was obliterated without leaving a trace, by the tidal wave. Thousands were killed without a chance to save themselves.

QUAKE BULLETINS

Shanghai, Sept. 4.—Rioting menaces the destroyed Japanese cities. Two hundred Koreans, driven from Tokio by soldiers enforcing martial law, procured arms in Hachioji, near the capital and started a disturbance. The police were arming officials and citizens to cope with the situation. A Japanese news agency states the revolting Koreans had connections between Tokio and Yokohama.

Osaka, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—A great explosion occurred at Owakidini, in Hakone, one of the hot springs of Japan, located about fifty miles from Tokio.

London, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—There was a heavy loss of life among the foreign residents of Yokohama, as a result of the earthquake, and the city was entirely destroyed, says a Lloyds dispatch from Kobe.

London, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The British Consul at Yokohama and about 100 of the foreign residents of the city are believed to be dead, according to dispatches received by the Central News by way of Shanghai. Shipping is still unable to enter Yokohama harbor, owing to continued submarine upheavals.

Quake Causes Great Waves Along California Coast

Los Angeles, Sept. 4.—Ground swells twenty feet high, larger than any in the experience of mariners at Los Angeles harbor, struck the southern California coast today and were believed to have been the result of the earthquake and tidal wave which devastated parts of Japan.

The swells broke completely over the fifteen foot breakwater and carried away all loose objects, including a boat tender at the light house and considerable lumber piled along the shore.

Naval observers said no storm of any size had been reported anywhere on the Pacific, and they thought the huge swells were the reaction on this coast from the Tokio catastrophe.

RECONSTRUCT GIRL'S REMAINS IN RIVER MYSTERY

MAY REVEAL IDENTITY OF YOUNG VICTIM

She Was Well Nourished and Cared for and Probably Weighed 140 Pounds

Reconstruction of the body of the victim in the Merrimac River suitcase mystery has been practically accomplished by Medical Examiner Alling.

Although the head and lower abdomen are still missing, the medical examiner has been able to obtain a fairly good description which may result in identification.

The victim was about thirty years of age, so far as we judge, lacking the head," said Dr Alling. "She was robust and well nourished, and careful of her person as shown by the nails on her hands and feet.

"Her skin was fair and her flesh firm. There was not a birth mark or mole on the parts of the body found. The only mark is a double vaccination scar on the upper left arm.

"The woman was about five feet tall and inclined to be plump. Her bust measurement was thirty-six, she would take an 8½ glove, and would wear about a size four shoe. Her feet were nine inches long. Her calf measured 15½ inches and her thighs 24½ inches. She weighed in the vicinity of 140 to 150 pounds."

The body was dissected into six parts, namely: the torso, head, abdominal or pelvic region, arms and legs. The legs were severed at the hips and knees, and the torso at a point just below the first ribs which, when separated from the legs, left a triangular section which, with the head is now being sought by police.

Medical Examiner Alling believes a professional man did not cut up the body. He said:

"A surgeon would make a free, clean, sweeping cut. Examination of the cuts that severed the arms and legs at the joints show that the cutting was made by a series of short and somewhat irregular incisions, but the person was adept with a knife."

MAINE WOMEN DROWN AS RAFT CAPSIZES

Lewiston, Me., Sept. 4.—Mrs. Arthur Mitchell, thirty-three, and Mrs. Palmer King, thirty-five, both of Auburn, were drowned at Lower Wilson Pond, Turner, when a raft which they were on capsized. Mrs. F. M. Parker of Auburn, who was also on the raft was rescued with difficulty by Edgar Bonney of Auburn, brother of Mrs. Mitchell. The bodies, which did not reappear after they sank in twenty feet of water, were recovered by grappling two hours later. A family party was being held at the pond and the women were among several who had been in bathing and were paddling about on the raft when the accident occurred.

Arthur Brisbane, by the magic of his mentality, collects and summarizes the paramount news of the day in simple, understandable English—so paragraphically arranged that it becomes one smooth-running story rather than a conglomeration of unrelated incidents. It is to be found in this newspaper under the title "Today."

with clothing, were of identical style and dimensions, however, and showed they were evidently purchased expressly for the purpose to which they were put.

These significant details have given rise to the theory that a woman had a hand in the crime, either as a principal or accessory.

The victim is believed to have been married, and was probably of foreign birth or extraction. There is evidence that a wedding ring was removed from her ring finger.

According to Medical Examiner Marshall J. Alling, she was about to become a mother of her first child, and was undoubtedly the victim of an illegal operation.

RIVER MAY BE DRAINED.

The head and abdominal section, if packed together, would fill another suitcase, and a vigorous search is being carried out for it. Certain of the officials feared the head may have been burned or otherwise disposed of, or cast into the river in a smaller bag.

For that reason divers were started to work today in the bed of the river, near the Tyngsboro bridge. If they fail the river will be drained by the lock and canals company, according to a statement from the office of the district attorney of Middlesex County.

THE THIRD SUITCASE.

The third suitcase was found by Dennis J. Shanahan of No. 76 Lancaster street, Leominster. He informed the Ayer police of his discovery and Chief Beatty took it to the station. He then informed the Lowell authorities.

The suitcase contained a pair of woman's stockings, a suit of men's underwear, a pair of men's shoes and a pair of men's socks.

Handicapped by the lost head and abdomen, the medical examiner has reconstructed the body of the victim with considerable success.

A local expert on suitcases said they cost about $9.50 each. He pointed out that the mountings were nickel plated and of high grade, and the cases were of the Davenport pattern.

The lock and side hasps were made by the Eagle Lock Co., of Terryville, Ct. The expert said the crestonne lining was of rather common type, but the suitcases as a whole were not a common pattern.

The person who dissected the river victim's body had pathological knowledge in that he figured in advance with accuracy how much of the dismembered parts would fit in the suitcase, an intimate difficult for a layman. He figured on slightly more than fifty pounds to a bag.

It is suggested by investigators on the case that the short cut amputations may have been purposely resorted to disguise the skillful hand of a professional man. Again there is a possibility that if a midwife or woman practitioner is involved she may have induced a male friend to dissect and dispose of the parts.

THROWN FROM BRIDGE.

There now appears to be little if any doubt that the two suitcases were thrown from the Tyngsboro bridge by the occupants of a passing automobile. This nocturnal party is thought to have consisted of at least two men.

Tyngsboro bridge afforded a safe point for such work. Spanning the Merrimac at a sparsely settled village, with nothing but the string of incandescent lights it was an easy matter for a machine to pull up at the railing on the down stream side and drop the suitcases into the river thirty feet below, without leaving the car.

Dr. M. L. Alling

Chief Pelletier

If done after midnight there was little danger of being disturbed or detected, as automobiles approaching either way could be sighted long enough in advance for the occupants of the funeral car to feign tire trouble if come upon in the middle of the bridge.

The railing on the right bank slopes in such a way to fit to give no opening until about a third of the way over, when it becomes level the rest of the distance at a height of four feet.

Developments to date indicate more strongly than anything else that the so-called death car came south from Nashua, turned onto the bridge, dropped the heavy suitcases and turned up the Hudson side of the river.

The State and local police have hunted for the owners of an automobile that collided with the metal fence at the turn on the left bank of the river about 5 Saturday morning. The car narrowly escaped plunging its occupants into a gully which might have meant serious injury or death.

This car came up from the direc-

JAIL BLONDE AS QUEEN OF BANDITS

Four Men Also Arrested on a Charge of Robbing Gas Filling Stations

Lillian Fink of Philadelphia, alleged by the police to be the bandit queen responsible for robbing gasoline filling stations in Cambridge, Everett and other communities in Greater Boston, was arrested outside the Ritz Hotel on Columbus avenue, today. Four men were also arrested.

Sergeant Bartholomew Winn and three patrolmen from the East Dedham street station held an alleged raid in the vicinity of the Ritz, expecting that the supposed bandit queen and her cohorts would appear there some time during the night. Not until early daylight was their vigilance rewarded, when the woman and the four men appeared at the front door.

The men gave their names as Julius Fink, Joseph Cohen, Charles Stein and Joseph Singer. All but Singer are Pennsylvanians. Singer lives in the West End of Boston.

The alleged bandit queen is a striking blond of 25. The police allege that she is the brains of a gang of "stick-up" men, who obey her implicitly and whom she rules with an iron hand. They hope to be ready to arraign her and her gang in court on Wednesday and are rounding up witnesses today.

BIG DRIVE FOLLOWS ROBBERIES

Others Seized and Taken to Stations; Are Released After Questioning

In one of the biggest roundups in months police of eleven Boston divisions arrested a total of sixty-four men over the holiday period from Saturday night to this morning.

All the men were booked as suspicious characters. Many others taken to the stations were questioned and released.

This police drive comes as the result of numerous robbery raids on Boston drug stores during the past months. Last week some of the band broke into a drug store in Scollay square and escaped un-

Following the Boston American story of the thieves' escape orders were issued by police officials for a general clean-up throughout the city.

SMITH SHOT AS 'POISON PEN' NOTES ARE IGNORED

Providence, Sept. 4—"Poison pen" letters and anonymous telephone threats were received at the Smith home in the fashionable East Side before Ernest R. Smith, intended blackmail victim, was shot in the North Providence woods last Wednesday morning by a young woman he says was Gertrude Johnson.

This was disclosed by members of the victim's family, who admitted they had good reason to suspect a Pawtucket business man of complicity in the plot.

Letters and telephone messages were directed to Mrs. Smith as well as to Her husband, now in a serious condition at the Jane Brown Memorial Hospital as a result of the revolver bullet fired by Gertrude Johnson whom Mr. Smith says he refused her demand for a payment of $10,000.

Evidence has been uncovered that the Pawtucket business man knew Gertrude Johnson and had witnessed her meetings with Mr. Smith at the Providence postoffice at various occasions after she telephoned a demand that he meet her there and make another payment or suffer the

TOTH QUITS NEAR FRENCH COAST

Dover, Eng., Sept. 4 (AP)—Charles Toth, of Boston, who at 6:45 o'clock last night began an attempt to swim the English Channel, was forced to quit at 9:45 o'clock today when he had reached a point five miles off the French coast. An adverse tide and rough seas made further progress impossible.

Clean Men

Men who enjoy cleaning up as a boy enjoys a swim

THE best part of the world's work must be done by men who are big and men who are clean.

Take the railroad engineers—Nothing could be more useful than the work they do; few men carry so much responsibility.

If you ever knew a locomotive engineer you know how he enjoyed being clean—how he loved the luxury of washing. He never felt safe until he felt clean.

Lifebuoy Health Soap is a great favorite with railroad men and their families. They find that Lifebuoy not only cleans deeper and better—it also destroys invisible germs. Then, too, it is a soap that can be used frequently and generously on tender skin. It heals and soothes, and destroys the least trace of skin odor.

It is because of Lifebuoy's antiseptic properties that this soap is regarded as a great aid to family health.

The copious Lifebuoy lather releases a wonderful substance which removes all dangerous germ life that lodges on the skin. You can smell this antiseptic—a cleanly, wholesome odor which vanishes almost instantly.

Lifebuoy is absolutely pure—its bland oils of palm fruit and cocoanut are soothing and keep the skin in splendid condition. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Protects Health—Beautifies Skin

Mothers—be sure that a cake of Lifebuoy is ready when your husband and children come home from work or play. Once they know it, no other soap satisfies. It costs little—yet its health protection is priceless

4 MEN AND WOMAN SLASHED IN NANTASKET STABBING

Four men and a woman were slashed when, the police alleged, William "Tug" Murphy, an ex-pugilist, crazed by liquor, ran amuck with a jack knife in the Sagamore Smoke Shop on Nantasket avenue, Nantasket. The injured were taken home by friends. Immediately following the stabbing Murphy, the police say, escaped in his automobile, but was later caught a mile from the scene in front of the Warwick Inn, when his gasoline gave out. He was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon on persons unknown. One of the victims, the police say, called them up on the telephone and promised to appear in court against Murphy.

ATTACK ON JAPANSE PREMIER CONFIRMED BY LANDING PARTY

Peking, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—A report from the steamer Koreak Maru, which sent a landing party into Yokohama, supports an earlier story that an attack had been made on the new Premier, Count Yamamoto.

The story as relayed was that the Count was attacked while attending the session at the Naval Club, at which the new Cabinet was outlined and which the earthquake interrupted.

Moscow, Sept. 4.—The assassination of Premier Yamamoto of Japan is rumored in dispatches from the Far East, but there is no verification.

Drowned in Upset

ANGIER B. DUKE

Heir to late tobacco king's millions and divorced husband of Cordelia Biddle Duke, who lost his life when rowboat capsized at yacht club pier.

ANGIER B. DUKE DROWNED AS BOAT UPSETS

By Universal Service.

Greenwich, Ct., Sept. 4.—Divers recovered the body of Angier B. Duke, member of the tobacco family, one of America's wealthiest young men, and divorced husband of Cordelia Biddle Duke, who was drowned in the overturning of a row boat at the Indian Harbor Yacht Club.

Duke, with a party of two other men and three women drove up to the club and got into a row boat to be taken aboard the Duke yacht, the Athea, anchored in the harbor.

As the last of the party stepped into the boat it capsized and all were thrown into the water. The last of the party were rescued but it is believed Duke struck his head and went down at once.

Duke was 39 years old, and the son of Benjamin N. Duke, tobacco baron, who left a fortune of $60,000,000. For several years in New York he was departmental manager of the United Cigar Stores Company, which he expanded considerably. In 1911 he retired to manage his father's estate. Duke had $10,000,000 in his own name and was interested in banks, railroads and manufacturing establishments in North Carolina.

When, in 1915, he married Cordelia Biddle, daughter of Major Anthony Biddle, of Philadelphia, Duke gave his bride a $25,000 necklace as a present.

In 1921 Mrs. Duke obtained a divorce, charging cruelty, and was awarded the custody of the two children.

Duke and his wife were prominent figures in Newport and Fifth Avenue society.

'KILL THE MOB!' SAYS OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR

Hartshore, Okla., Sept. 4.—Mob violence in Oklahoma will be stamped out if it is necessary to put every national guardsman in the State on duty and then call for volunteers, Gov. J. C. Walton told several thousands of coal miners of eastern Oklahoma gathered at a Labor Day picnic.

"I may have to come here and ask some of you people to help me, but I am going to straighten out some of these counties even if I run short of troops and have to go on the job myself," the governor said.

The executive vigorously defended his action in suspending the right to the writ of habeas corpus in Tulsa County, reading from the law to sustain his position.

"I say the man who comes to your home with the intention of taking you out and beating you to death is a criminal and should be shot on the spot," Gov. Walton declared.

"I can offer but two alternatives. First, go home, arm yourself and protect yourself as best you can. When attacked by a mob shoot and shoot to kill. Or, second, I can call out the guard and declare martial law, supersede the local authorities and clean up the whole thing.

"That is what I am going to do, and I want you to know that Tulsa is not the only bad county. We have many others just as bad."

LOST BOY LIVES IN 'NEW YORK STATE'

A seven-year-old boy who says his name is Clarence Ingram and that he lives somewhere in New York State, was picked up by East Dedham street station police officers at the Randolph street playground, South End.

The police believe the youngster wandered away from parents who were visiting friends or relatives in this city.

Woman of 104 Years Beats Flappers at Own Game

London, Sept. 1.—Flappers who have been lectured on the evils of smoking cigarettes may point triumphantly to the case of Mrs. Ann Haykin, the oldest inhabitant of Sheffield, who has reached her 104th birthday, though she puffs away at an old corncob pipe every night before retiring.

Her "bit of baccy" is Mrs. Haykin's pet vice, but she also enjoys her glass of beer.

CHANCE TO SAVE LINER CITY OF ROCKLAND

Bath, Me., Sept. 4.—Marine salvage experts of the Eastern Steamship lines are at Dix Island for an examination of the stranded liner City of Rockland, which ran on the rocks in a dense fog, endangering the lives of 300 passengers.

Small hope is entertained that the vessel may be hauled off the reef and saved. She has a huge hole in her bow, her seams are ripped open fully six inches in places, and her main deck aft is awash in seven fathoms of water.

Scores of Greater Boston residents were among the 300 passengers taken off in lifeboats when the City of Rockland foundered on Dix Island.

Women and children were sheltered in cottages on the island. At daylight the steamer Wirwurna arrived at the island after a record run from Bath. Refugees were transported to this city, where they boarded a special train for Boston.

San Francisco—Federal Judge William C. Van Fleet died here. He was 73 and had spent nearly 50 years in public service.

U. S. TO EXTRADITE CROOKS WHO ARE HIDING IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Sept. 4.—France automatically recognized Mexico when Jules Blondet asked the foreign office whether Jean Perrier, the present French envoy extraordinary in London, would be acceptable as minister to this country.

The commercial, customs and extradition treaties between the United States and this republic have been resumed. It is announced that Washington will demand the extradition of several Americans who have escaped to this country to avoid arrest.

NEW ENGLAND DAIRY AND FOOD COUNCIL

JOHNSON PICKS CAMPAIGN MANAGER

New York, Sept. 4.—The coal strike may make or mar President Coolidge's chances for nomination at the 1924 Republican convention, in the opinion of Frederick W. Upham, treasurer of the National Republican Committee, who arrived from a trip abroad.

Mr. Upham predicted President Coolidge would be nominated next year to succeed himself "if he has a chance meantime to demonstrate his ability and if he chooses to be a candidate."

"The President," he added, "has many hurdles to negotiate between now and next June, and he hasn't demonstrated what he can or will do. If President Coolidge seeks the nomination he will be in the position of a pole-horse because he will go into the convention as the reigning head of his party."

Other "formidable" candidates, Mr. Upham thought, would be Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, Senator Hiram Johnson of California, and former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois. Albert Lasker, former chairman of the U. S. Shipping Board, has announced to manage eSnator Johnson's campaign, Mr. Upham added.

COOLIDGE FOR ENFORCING DRY LAW TO LIMIT

By Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—President Coolidge intends to continue the prohibition enforcement policies of the late President Harding was revealed at the White House.

The President aims to seek closer cooperation between federal and state authorities to make the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law effective to the fullest degree.

The Executive's attitude of dry law enforcement was made known at a conference with Governor Hyde of Missouri who came to Washington primarily, he said, to discuss this subject. Governor Hyde said he would not be able to attend the governor's conference the President is going to call in the near future and took this opportunity to reach an understanding with the President on dry law enforcement in his state.

In Missouri the police departments of the three large cities, St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph's are under direct state control through commissions appointed by the governor. After his conference with the President, Governor Hyde said the police of the Missouri cities and other law enforcement agencies in that state would continue to cooperate with the Federal authorities.

The President has not determined just when the governors' conference will be held. He is still awaiting the return to Washington of Prohibition Commissioner Haynes who continues at his home at Hillsboro.

KILLED AS TRAIN HITS HANDCAR

Taunton, Sept. 4. — Dominic Muciarone, fifty-six years old, of No. 122 Norfolk street, for twenty years a track inspector for the New Haven Railroad, was instantly killed when a hand car he was operating near the Knollwood station was struck by a special train bound from Boston to Newport. Muciarone was bound for Providence. Neither he nor the engineer observed his danger until it was too late. The body was hurled some distance by the impact and was then cut in two when the train passed over it. Muciarone leaves a wife, two daughters and two sons.

HEINEMAN CASE HEARING SET FOR SEPT. 19

The petition of Mrs. Florence J. Heineman for separate maintenance, filed against her husband, Otto F. G. Heineman, Somerville dancing master, has been assigned for a hearing in the Middlesex Probate Court, East Cambridge, on September 19.

Mrs. Heineman, when she filed her petition, obtained a temporary injunction restraining her husband from ejecting her from the Heineman dancing studio and home on School street, Somerville. The injunction is no longer in force and Mr. and Mrs. Heineman have separated.

In her petition, Mrs. Heineman alleges her husband failed to furnish suitable support, that he had deserted her and that he was frequently guilty of cruel and abusive treatment.

MANGUS SAYS HE WON'T UPSET THINGS

Waverly, Minn., Sept. 4.—Declaring that he was not opposed to the federal reserve system, but rather to the men who operate it, Magnus Johnson, United States Senator-elect from Minnesota, in an address at the Waverly home-coming celebration asserted he would endeavor to have the officers of the system removed.

"I may be radical," said Mr. Johnson, "but when I get to Washington I will not be too radical and will not turn Lenin topsy-turvy. I will use common sense.

"I am not opposed to the federal reserve banks. It is a wonderful system. I am opposed to the men who run this system just as the small bankers are dissatisfied with them."

MARTIAL LAW IN QUAKE ZONE; 2,000,000 FACING STARVATION

LOOTERS ROUTED BY SOLDIERS

Citizens of Stricken Cities Are Armed to Guard Ruins Against Ghouls

Osaka, Sept. 4 (A.P.).—The Japanese government is facing two gigantic problems arising out of the greatest disaster in the history of Japan.

The first problem is that of providing food, shelter and clothes for the more than 2,000,000 people in Tokio and for many additional millions in other cities and districts affected.

The emergency commandeering law will enable the authorities to facilitate the necessary supplies of labor. The relief work is being organized throughout the nation.

The second problem is that of maintaining peace and order in Tokio and other cities where already looting and violence are reported. Martial law has been invoked and other military measures have been adopted to cope with the situation.

President Asks U. S. to Aid Stricken Japan

Washington, Sept. 4.—An appeal to the American people to contribute to the relief of the people of Japan was issued by President Coolidge.

The American Red Cross was designated as the organization to which relief contributions should be transmitted.

At the same time it was made clear that such assistance as was within the means of the executive branch of the government would also be rendered.

The text of the proclamation follows:

"To the people of the United States: An overwhelming disaster has overtaken the people of the friendly nation of Japan. While its extent has not as yet been officially reported, enough is known to justify the statement that the cities of Tokio and Yokohama and surrounding towns and villages have been largely if not completely destroyed by earthquake, fire and flood, with a resultant appalling loss of life and destitution and distress, requiring measures of urgent relief.

"Such assistance as is within the means of the executive department of the government will be rendered, but realizing the great suffering which now needs relief and will need relief for days to come, I am prompted to appeal urgently to the American people whose sympathies have always been so comprehensive to contribute in aiding the unfortunate and in giving relief to the people of Japan.

"In order that the utmost coordination and effectiveness in the administration of the relief funds be obtained, I recommend that all contributions, clearly designated, be sent to the American National Red Cross at Washington or to any of the local Red Cross Chapters for transmission to Japan."

Osaka, Sept. 4.—Reports from eye-witnesses at Hakone say the earthquake left no houses standing at Miyanoshita, the fashionable mountain resort, forty-five miles south of Tokio. The famous Fujiya Hotel was among the buildings destroyed.

Flames in Blazing Tokio Seen 200 Miles Away

Harbin, Manchuria, Sept. 4.—The flames of the blazing capital of Japan have been visible for 200 miles. According to reports received here, the earthshocks are continuing, while a volcano 40 miles from Tokio is still active. The river Sumida has changed its course through the stricken city.

The Yen has fallen appreciably on the Harbin Stock Exchange and business is transacted in Chinese dollars only.

U. S. WARSHIPS TO RUSH RELIEF TO JAPANESE

Washington, Sept. 4.—Officials here were preparing to press forward today plans for extending American aid to the earthquake sufferers of Japan.

While Americans individually throughout the country were responding to the proclamation appeal issued by President Coolidge for contributions through the American Red Cross, ships of the Army and Navy already were either under way or loading with supplies for the relief of the afflicted region.

In addition, the entire Asiatic fleet has been placed at the disposal of the Japanese Minister of Marine for any possible service, and plans were said to contemplate the use of other government vessels, including some of the Shipping Board, if necessary, as supply carriers.

After American relief plans had been discussed at the White House and at the State, War, Navy and other departments, it was announced that the destroyer tender Black Hawk will be loaded on her arrival at Chefoo, China, with one million pounds of rice and 500,000 pounds of beans and other non-perishable foods to be rushed to the earthquake sufferers.

The War Department at the same time ordered the army transports Meigs and Merritt to proceed from Manila with food and medical supplies.

Seven destroyers of the Asiatic fleet are already nearing Japan with medical supplies and food, one being due to arrive at Nagasaki today and the other six at Yokohama tomorrow.

The funds being distributed through Red Cross chapters and the National headquarters here will be added to an initial fund of $100,000 already contributed by the American society to be turned over to the Japanese through the state department.

In addition the American organization has appropriated $10,000 from its reserve fund for the assistance of Americans in the stricken area.

BULLETINS

Peking, Sept. 4.—A landing party sought to proceed from Yokohama toward Tokio, but were prevented from doing so by the police, who blocked the road and denied passage to all who were not carrying their own food supplies or could not prove the urgency of their mission in the stricken capital.

Peking, Sept. 4.—Many of the casualties in Tokio were caused by the municipal gas tanks. The big pond in Asakusa Park is said to be filled with the bodies of women and children who fled to the water in the last faint hope of escaping destruction. Tokio is still virtuously insulated, the nearest railway traffic being open only to a station near Kawaguchi.

New York, Sept. 4. — Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, announced that he would call on every member of organized labor in the United States to extend fullest sympathy and contribute a part of their earnings for relief in the Japanese disaster.

San Francisco, Sept. 4 (By Universal Service).—A radio dispatch received by the Radio Corporation of America from the Japanese station at Tomioka, north of Tokio, says it is reported that the densely populated islands of Bonin and Oshima have been swallowed up by the sea. The islands lie off the Idzu Peninsula. Every effort to get in touch with them since the disastrous earthquake and tidal wave have been futile, the dispatch said.

JAP ROYALTY PERISH IN DISASTER

Nagasaki, Sept. 4. (AP)—Prince Shimadzu, formerly of the great house of Satsuma, is reported to have been killed in the disaster.

Several others of royal blood are also said to have lost their lives or to have been injured.

Nagasaki, Sept. 4. (AP)—The death of Prince Masayoshi Matsukata, former Premier and Minister of Finance, is reported here. A message to the Nagoya Railway Bureau says the Prince died from the effects of injuries sustained in the earthquake.

London, Sept. 4.—Japanese securities on London Stock Exchange declined generally, government stocks falling one half to 2 per cent., Tokio Electric Light 6 per cent. bonds as low as 5 per cent. under par and South Manchurian Railway 5's showing a 2 per cent. discount. London marine insurance will suffer heaviest loss from Japanese disaster.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 4.—The passenger liners Empress of Canada and President Jefferson, which come within radius of the tidal wave zone off the coast of Japan, are safe, according to word received by the Canadian Pacific Line agencies here.

New York, Sept. 4. (AP)—Officials of the Standard Oil Company of New York received a cable today stating that all of their 40 American employes in Tokio and Yokohama, with one exception, were alive. The fortieth was reported missing.

The Popularity of "SALADA" TEA B389

has been earned on merit only.
One trial will convince you.

DEDICATED by Berry & Wyckie, the Berwick Kiddies, to Fifty-Two Thousand of their little friends in New England, all of whom believe BERWICK CAKE makes Home Sweet Home.

Oh, Berry and Wyckie, our two little friends,
Have supper together when daylight ends,
It's oatmeal and milk most every night,
And Berwick Cake to finish it right!

One night when their mother had tucked them in,
And covered them up to the chinny-chin-chin,
They said "goodbye" to Wide-awake Land,
And dreamed of a Visit to Berwick Cake Land.

They opened their eyes and what do you guess?
There stood a Fairy in a Marshmallow dress!
A wand made of choc'late she was holding up high,
With frosting that sparkled like the Fourth of July.

She whisked them away to a magical cakery,
What wonderful cake they make at this Bakery!
With Pixies to mix it, and Brownies to brown it,
And Fairies to fashion the frosting around it.

Said the Queen of the Fairies, "I want you to know
A few of the bakers who help me so;
There's fussy old Pound, and old-fashioned Marble,
Their taste is so good 'twould make a duck warble!"

Then Wyckie said, "My!" looking up in the sky,
"Just look at those Brownies flying ever so high!"
"It's easy for them, they're Sponge Cakes, you see,
There's nothing so light as our Sponge Family!"

But Berry was watching a fat little man
Whose fingers were dripping with Jelly and Jam.
"That's Raspberry Layer, he's crammed to his booties,
Those Layers are always stuffing with goodies!"

The Fairy then whispered in Wyckie's left ear,
"There's Duchess, the best little Fairy that's here,
You'll never find better at anyone's table,
It's choc'late, or coc'nut, or orange, or maple!"

"Are there others?" asked Berry. "Oh, yes," said the Fairy,
"There's Snowflake and Golden and Walnut and Cherry,
There's Cassia Fruit, a dark little elf,
And Marshmallow Nut, but—taste for yourself!"

Then each little Fairy, and Brownie, too,
Gave Berry and Wyckie a nibble or two,
And it felt so good in their tummy-tum-tum,
That all they could say was, "yummy-yum-yum!"

"It's time to go home," said the beautiful Fairy,
As she kissed back to sleep both Wyckie and Berry,
Then into their beddy bye softly they fell
As the Fairy repeated this magical spell:

"Airy, Fairy, Berwick Brand,
Clownie Brownies of Cakery Land,
Snuggle and Snuggle them back to their Mother,
Tickle and Tuckle them under the cover!"

"WOMAN BUTCHER" IS SOUGHT IN MERRIMAC RIVER TRAGEDY

NEW TRAIL IN SUIT CASE MYSTERY

tion of Lowell along the Pawtucket-ville boulevard on the left bank of the river. Some think the car which was overspeeding may have been carrying the two black suitcases with their gruesome contents.

And that meeting with the mishap they hastily disposed of the suitcases which they originally had intended to carry farther north.

The police inquiries in every garage in Nashua whether any car had been repaired Saturday morning but none had. Failure of the occupants of the car to come forward and eliminate themselves from the zone of suspicion is interpreted by the majority of the investigators as proof that they were foreigners who had nothing to do with the tragedy. While the police would like to locate this car they don't attach much importance to it.

On the other hand, it is argued that if the occupants had singled out the bridge for their work they would have been familiar enough with the road not to plunge into the fence and tree at the curve.

A bridge with such a rural setting as that at Tyngsboro was just the place to be sought at night by those who wished to dispose of the body. If the persons involved in the tragedy had traveled from Lowell or a point farther south, they would have been more likely to drop the suitcases from the smaller bridge reached before that at Tyngsboro, which is even more secluded.

SECOND SUITCASE LOCKED.

The first suitcase dropped in the river from Tyngsboro bridge was undoubtedly the second one found containing the legs, two less than two miles down stream. The first suitcase containing the torso and arms was undoubtedly the second cast in, and being caught in the slow swirl was carried like sticks thrown in later, in tests, to the left bank not more than a quarter mile below.

A new point brought out by Jason H. Ringsbury of Lowell was that the second case had been locked with a key and had to be broken open with a screwdriver by the officer who discovered the legs in it. The suitcase containing the torso and arms had merely been clasped but not locked.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY TO ACT.

A report reached Lowell from Manchester, N. H., that a clerk in N. J. Whalen's bag and trunk store in the latter city had sold two black suitcases to a man last week.

The river mystery has brought to light a list of several missing girls and women. Agitated parents and husbands are hourly making inquiries of the Lowell and Tyngsboro police relative to missing relatives.

District Attorney Arthur K. Reading is expected personally to take up the case today. He has approved of the hiring of a diver. In his absence he has been represented on the scene by Assistant District Attorney Franklin Bishop.

Chief of Police Joseph Pelletier and State Officers Smith, Stokes and Ferrari and Capt. Petrie of the Lowell police are working day and night on the case.

Diver to Clear Up Lake Winnisquam Clew

Laconia, N. H., Sept. 4.—Marshal Charles A. Harvell, who located what appeared to be a box in thirty feet of water at the outlet of Lake Winnisquam, suspended investigation today.

He said nothing further could be done to determine whether there was any connection between this object and the portions of a woman's body found in the Merrimack River at Tyngsboro, until a diver could be obtained.

A Summer resident told the marshal that last Friday night an automobile stopped on the Winnisquam bridge and he heard a splash in the water. The car was driven off in a southerly direction.

Hunting 10 Women in Suitcase Killing

The police are searching for several women who have disappeared mysteriously from their homes during the past two months. One of them may possibly be the victim in the Tyngsboro suitcase mystery.

They are:

Madeline Prentiss, 24 years old, of No. 18 Wentworth street, Dorchester, missing since Aug. 28.

Mrs. Mary Curreolan, 27 years old, of Avon; missing since June 24.

Mrs. Mary Sampson, 22 years old, of Malden; missing since July 27.

Amelia Greco, 25 years old, No. 187 F street, South Boston; missing since Aug. 21.

Nellie Michalonis, 35 years old, No. 125 West Broadway, South Boston, missing since July 9.

Esther Keller, 27 years old, No. 28 Browning avenue; missing since July 10.

Ella Sampson, 21 years old, Waltham; missing since July 10.

Lillian Doyle, 23 years old, No. 76 Hillside avenue, Campello; missing since July 8.

Carina Hein, 49 years old, No. 65 Astor street, Back Bay.

Mrs. Violet Reuak, 21 years old, of No. 90 Wythe avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.; missing since Nov. 22, 1922.

GERMAN MINERS JOIN FRENCH

Essen, Sept. 4.—The Berlin government has taken a hand in the dispute between the miners and suit of the decision of several thousand mine-owners in the Ruhr, as a result miners to work under French direction.

The German press reported today that the Reich Commissioner Mellrich had been given plenary powers by the Berlin government to reach a settlement between the miners and their employers in order to stave off further defections to the French. Negotiations to this end have already begun, according to the Germans, the first meeting being held at Bochum.

As a result of Berlin's intervention, it was reported today, the workers of five mines have already returned to their duties under German employers.

TOKIO BONDS DROP ON N. Y. 'CHANGE

New York, Sept. 4.—City of Tokio, Japan, 5 per cent. bonds declined 10 points in the New York Stock Exchange at the opening today. The Japanese government 1st 4½s sold down 2½ points at 90½.

BIG BOMBER STANDS UP IN THIRD TEST

Dayton, Ohio, Sept. 4.—The Barling bomber, world's largest airplane, was given a third successful trial flight over Dayton, as one of the features of an air circus, which was staged at McCook Field. Approximately 100,000 persons witnessed the performance.

The bomber was in the air 40 minutes and functioned perfectly, according to Lieut. Harold Harris, who piloted the craft. It carried nine passengers.

3 RESCUED BY FIREMEN AT KENBERMA

Fireman Michael Reno, assisted by two other members of the Kenberma Fire Department, were heroes in a rescue of three persons from the fourth floor of the Kenberma House today when flames blocked exit.

Miss Alice Whitcomb, of Brockton, Mrs. M. Katz, of No. 562 Warren street, Roxbury, mother of the proprietor of the hotel, and Mrs. Sara Bashler, of No. 26 Oneida street, South End, were carried down the ladders to safety amid the cheers of guests and watchers in the street below. The three women were sleeping when the fire started.

The fire, which is thought to have started beneath a stairway under the kitchen, had reached the dining room on the second floor when Jack Katz, proprietor, was awakened by the smell of smoke. Damage was estimated at more than $1,000.

LEAGUE DEFIED BY MUSSOLINI OF ITALY

official channels claims that eight Greeks and two Armenians were killed during the Italian bombardment at Corfu. Then they remained in the barracks on the invitation of Greek troops.

The announcement claims furthermore that British correspondents' report substantiates Italy's claim that Italians were blameless.

Rome, Sept. 4. (4P)—Athens is completely isolated and the Greek government is allowing no reports concerning the "grave internal situation" to be sent from the capital, says a dispatch from Greece today.

A counter-revolutionary Republican movement is under way, the dispatch adds, and is gaining ground, despite drastic measures by the government, including the immediate arrest of all suspects and the confiscation of arms. The followers of deposed King Constantine's party are said to be preparing for action.

As an indication of the drift of public opinion, the dispatch says the tomb of General Gonaris, who was executed by the revolutionary government last November, is constantly covered with flowers, in spite of all efforts of the police to prevent demonstrations.

Radio Trade Notes

A good example of the efficiency of a close hook-up with the proper arrangement of parts may be seen at the Radio Tube Exchange in the Dexter Building. A single tube set operates a loud-speaker with very satisfactory results. The set measures 6x6, cost only $3.35, but with its single tube and a small loud speaker even the words of the announcer may be clearly understood.

Dealers are all boosting the Neutrodyne sets. They are simple to operate and one needs very little knowledge of radio to enjoy countless pleasant hours with this very practical set.

Many amateurs about to build a set are at a loss as to where they can purchase parts at reasonable prices and at the same time get a little expert advice as to their use. This difficulty may be solved by calling at Burt's Radio Shop, No. 258 Washington street.

There is far too much antagonism among the radio dealers in this city. New York and Chicago are far ahead of Boston in this respect. Nothing can be gained by criticising your competitor. There is plenty of business here now for everyone, and the other cities are getting ahead of us in the great radio field only because they work for the common welfare. Wake up dealers! Stop knocking, put your shoulder to the wheel, and we'll write "BOSTON" in large letters on the radio map of the United States.

RADIO QUERIES AND ANSWERS

SEPARATE AERIALS

Radio Editor:

Can two crystal sets be attached to the same aerial?

H. L. D.

No. The aerials may be attached to the same pole, but neither of the sets will work as well as when connected to aerials that are far apart.

MATTER OF OPINION

Radio Editor:

Which is the better to use on the variometer variocoupler set, tuned radio frequency or transformer coupling? Can a Ford coil be used as a radio frequency choke coil?

F. W. F.

This is a matter of personal opinion. No.

VARIABLE CONDENSER

Radio Editor:

Will it help my set any if I take the variable condenser out and substitute a variometer for it?

D. O'L.

No. The set is probably designed for the variable condenser.

FIRES OF HATE BEHIND PLOT TO MURDER

GUISEPPINA FONDI

Pretty Italian girl of Providence who says attacks of politicians drove her to decide both he and she must die.

From his suite in a Providence office building State Representative Joseph Veneziale stepped briskly into the corridor. At the end of the hall a beautiful young Italian girl, Giuseppina Fondi, waited for him. As he reached her, smiling, she drew a gun. Then the police came.

In the first instalment of her absorbing story, printed exclusively by this newspaper on Saturday, Giuseppina told of her meeting with the urbane young Italian politician; how he represented her in a legal matter; how he induced her to divorce her husband, and how, after she was divorced, he showed her the seamy side of what she had believed to be a goldren romance.

By GIUSEPPINA F. NDI

I had been trapped into thinking Joseph Veneziale was a gentleman.

I spent hours alone with him in his offices, helping him sometimes, and spending leisure hours working on the little jewelry, earrings and trinkets, that the Italian girls make.

He kept me shut away from the world, during the day in his office, at night in his company. It was like my old convent-college, except that where previously I had my sweet thoughts of religion and my studies, now I had my love and passion for this man.

DIVORCED HUSBAND

I had left my father's house and divorced my husband. Now because Joseph Veneziale was of a different political party than many of my friends, I practically forsook them, too. He forbade me to learn the English language. In every way possible I was his own and his alone. My love was my excuse for my belonging to him. My loyalty to his actions was my justification.

The political struggle between the Republicans and Democrats in our district of the city became furious. Joe Veneziale was Republican. His enemies attacked him through me and in reply he taught me politics and sent me out to speak for him in Italian. He told me that my beauty and my use of the mother-tongue captivated everyone.

JEALOUSY GROWS

A few votes swung the election. He was elected and then for the first time I asked him about marriage, a subject he himself had proposed many times. He laughed. He said I did not really want to be his wife but that I loved him because he was a successful lawyer and a legislator.

My friends told me he was going to marry another girl. They pointed her out to me and I asked him about her. He told me that the woman who was to be his wife was not yet picked out. My jealousy grew so great that I told him that I would go to the law about his promises, as my friends urged me to.

He begged me on his knees to remember his future in the State House.

BRINGS LOVE SUIT

I did not want my name published but thinking of the good it would do others I took my case to the law so that his name would be published, for the sake of other people, to show them what kind of a man he was, and so that they too would not be fooled in thinking him a gentleman.

I sued Joe Veneziale for breach of promise.

Then my dear old father, with tears flowing from his eyes, forbade me to go further in the courts and so we came to a secret agreement. I had nothing but hate for Joe Veneziale. I was moved by my father's pleadings.

He gave my father $850 and he paid my lawyers. When it was settled he became a reptile. He went around talking about me and called me "vile woman." I asked him to stop and he refused.

I succeeded once in proving he was telling untruths. He accused me of going with a man high in political life, in the State House, and I arranged a meeting so that he heard from this man's own lips that what he said was a lie and that he must stop saying it.

FEARED FOR LIFE

I feared for my life because my friend told me that some one had offered her $75 to get rid of me. I was so assailed by him on one side and by my friends on the other, urging me to do this and that, telling me how foolish I was not to drive him from the State House, that I did not know where I stood. Their current of talk kept running swiftly to my ears. I heard Joe Veneziale say on the telephone to my friend that what he was telling was true.

Then I decided we must die. I did not want to die, but I could see no other way of ending my misery and of quenching the fire of sometimes love, sometimes hate, that burned in me.

(In tomorrow's American, Miss Fondi relates how she tried to shoot Veneziale, why she did so, and what followed.)

Thomas Kittredge, of No. 32 Pearl street, Ayer, another of the victims, is on the danger list. Hope is held out for the recovery of Mrs. Florence Sawyer, of Canobie Lake, Salem, N. If Kittredge recovers he will be charged with operating while under the influence of liquor. The Methuen police, after investigating a larceny complaint against him, will arraign him later.

Mrs. Sawyer claims she lost a large sum of money by theft after accepting a ride in the roadster with the men. A roll of $327 was found in Kittredge's pocket. Mrs. Sawyer's head wounds required 29 stitches.

Framingham, Sept. 4.—Henry A. Canty, four-year-old son of Paul Canty of Dorchester, a member of the staff of Dist. Atty. Thomas C. O'Brien of Boston, is on the danger list at the Framingham Hospital suffering from injuries which he sustained when he was struck and knocked down by an automobile operated by Israel Rosenblndt of 19 Leyering avenue, Saxonville. 31 Locomotives in 31 Hours Record of Baldwin Plant

Philadelphia, Sept. 4.—All records for locomotive production were smashed when thirty-one locomotives, among the largest type produced in America, left the Eddystone plant of the Baldwin Locomotive Works. The huge engines were turned out at the rate of one every hour. They weighed from 350,000 to 400,000 pounds each.

READY FOR 'LAST WORD' PARLEY IN COAL STRIKE

Philadelphia, Sept. 4.—Miners and operators, comprising committees trying to work out a new wage agreement between anthracite workers and mine owners devoted today to preparing for tomorrow's conference at Harrisburg where another effort will be made to reach a settlement under the mediation of Governor Pinchot.

So far as could be learned there was no formal meeting of the operators planned, but it is understood they are exchanging views.

President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, has called the three anthracite district presidents of the union to meet with him here tonight and leave for Harrisburg tomorrow. Mr. Lewis said there was no significance in the gathering of the committeemen here, as the meeting was called merely to check up on the situation.

So far as can be learned, there has been no change in the general situation.

Reports from the coal fields today showed the region quiet with suspension complete.

HOOK BRINGS UP WOMAN'S BODY

Asa Ham of Concord, fishing in the Sudbury river in that town, hauled up the body of Mrs. Helen Wallace of No. 27 Belknap street, Concord.

Medical Examiner Henry T. Wallcott believes that the woman committed suicide. Mrs. Wallace, a middle aged woman, was the wife of Francis B. Wallace. She had been ill in health and disappeared Sunday evening.

Ham was in a canoe off the South Bridge boathouse. His hook caught in some weeds on the bottom of the river not far from the shore, and as he pulled up on the line, the body rose from the bottom. It had been lying in about three feet of water.

Ham tied the body to the canoe, paddled to the opposite side, and notified Chief William G. Ryan of the Concord police, who in turn, sent word to the fire department, believing the drowning had just occurred, for a pulmotor.

7 GIRLS GO TO BEAUTY TOURNEY

Dorchester and Cambridge Among Those Seeking "Miss America" Title

The seven New England girls who will compete for the title of "Miss America" in the National Beauty Tournament at Atlantic City during the annual pageant, which begins tomorrow, left today for that resort.

Among the girls are Miss Margaret L. Black of Dorchester, as "Miss Boston," winner of the Boston American's beauty contest, and Miss Doris Rowden George, as "Miss Cambridge," second-place winner in the American's contest.

They occupied adjoining seats in the parlor car "Belmar," and were accompanied on the trip by their mothers, Mrs. Sarah Black and Mrs. A. Rowden George, and also by Miss Phyllis George, sister of Doris.

ALL ARE BEAUTIES.

A group of girls almost as pretty as Miss Black herself gave "Miss Boston" a rousing send-off. Commuters arriving on suburban trains gasped as New England's champions swept through the crowds.

Miss Black wore a dainty black dress, tastily trimmed in white and silver, a light grey fluffy neckpiece, and a small black hat trimmed in orange.

Heads of the Belmar's passengers turned as the party entered, led by Miss Black. Her seat, No. 19, seemed due for plenty of attention from passengers and porters en route.

"I'm just going to try to bring something good back to Boston as hard as anyone ever tried to win anything," Miss Black said as she waved good-bye to the group on the platform.

The party will be at Atlantic City a week, residing while there in attractive suites at the fashionable Chalfonte-Haddon Hall hotel.

ALL ABOARD FOR SOUTH.

The other New England young women who left today are Miss Mildred Salisbury, New Bedford; Miss Helen Haddock, New Haven; Miss Alla H. Gove, Burlington, Vt.; Miss Winona E. Drew, Portland, and Miss Loretta L. LaBlanume, Providence, all of whom won in newspaper contests similar to the American's.

They range in age from sixteen to twenty-one years, Miss Drew being youngest and Miss Black the eldest. They are evenly divided between blondes and brunettes.

3 HELD; STOLEN CAR ABANDONED

Three youths in a stolen automobile led the Lexington police a chase through Lexington and into Arlington Heights and escaped into the woods after being made the targets for several shots by the police.

The chase started at Massachusetts avenue, Lexington, near the Munroe Station, when the stolen car containing the three young men was spotted by Chief Ansell and two officers, ignoring the commands to halt.

The policemen gave chase in the police car and had nearly overtaken the fugitives when Arlington Heights was reached. The stolen car was then driven up an embankment and abandoned.

The police found that the car was registered to C. B. Butcher of No. 2 Fayette park, Cambridge. Near the car was found a set of burglar's tools. It was learned that the car had been stolen from the Butcher garage during the night.

Later the youths, arrested at their homes, were John E. Butcher, nineteen years old, of No. 93 Pine street, Cambridge; William J. Richardson, eighteen years old, of No. 17 Magnolia avenue, Cambridge, and Edward Mulvey, eighteen years old, of No. 844 Broadway, Somerville.

MOB ATTACKS ASSAILANTS OF WOMAN

Salisbury Beach, Sept. 4.—A mob of men, who threatened violence to two men arrested here for an alleged attack on a woman, was dispersed by the police only after a stream of water from a hose had been turned upon the crowd.

The victim of the alleged attack, Mrs. Ethel George of Newton Junction, N. H., who is about to become a mother, was removed to the Homeopathic Hospital at Newburyport.

Mrs. Gegge was walking along the Ocean Boulevard in broad daylight, her fifteen-months-old child in her arms, when the two men, Thomas Lacey of Lawrence and Daniel McLeod of Haverhill, are alleged to have struck her several times with their fists.

The woman's screams attracted a crowd of passersby, some of whom seized the two men, while the others hurled threats at them. Police arrived and rescued the men from the crowd.

The mob, however, followed the patrol wagon to the station, and crowded about the police threateningly as the men were taken into the station house. The crowd clambered to the platform in front of the station in such numbers that it collapsed beneath them. No one was seriously hurt.

TWO MEN SHOT IN LAWRENCE; 1 ARREST

Lawrence, Sept. 4.—Leo Marzelvelis of No. 254 Oak street was arrested after he was alleged to have fired two shots into a group of men and wounded Thomas Kamar of No. 31 Valley street, in the left elbow. Set upon by a brother of the wounded man, the gun in the defendant's hand discharged two more shots, one of which embedded itself in the left shoulder of Elias Barwell, of No. 293 Oak street. Neither victim was seriously injured.

WOMAN OF 60 FIGHTS TO TELL HER IDENTITY

Another victim of amnesia is at the Psychopathic hospital fighting to regain her memory so she may be returned home.

The victim is a woman 60 years old, apparently of refinement. For twenty-four hours she has struggled to tell the nurses who she is, but all efforts have failed.

"I have a son, Charles," said the woman during a moment when her mind was clear. Then she wandered off and could remember nothing.

A ray of hope flared up for a moment when she suddenly recalled that she had taken a long ride in a big red automobile with her son. She said she came from a city far from here, and that she had worked in a hospital once. Then the curtain fell over her memory again.

This woman is 5 feet, 5 inches tall, weighs 150 pounds and has gray hair. She wears eyeglasses. She is dressed in dark blue skirt, white waist and black hat with red flowers.

DOOMS DE VALERA TO REMAIN IN JAIL

Genoa, Sept. 4.—William T. Cosgrave, President of the Irish Free State; Desmond Fitzgerald, Foreign Minister, and Professor John MacNeill, Minister of Education, who came to Genoa for the celebration in honor of St. Columbanus, who was born in Ireland in 543, resumed their journey to the League of Nations' session at Genoa.

Fitzgerald declared that Eamon De Valera must remain a prisoner until the pacification of the country is complete.

FUGITI HOLDS OF GUARDS

Negro Threatened to South End Mother; Po Surround Her Home

Taunton, Sept. 4.—Ri Henry, a nineteen-year-old ton negro, escaped from Taunton State Hospital for Criminal Insane by holding guards with a revolver.

Threatening to shoot anyone who blocked his path, the youth, who is regarded as a dangerous maniac, got out of his cell in the hospital, ra across the grounds and scaled the ten-foot wall of the institution.

A State-wide search for the fugitive is underway and a police guard has been thrown about the home of his aged mother, who lives at No. 18 Claremont Park, South End. Henry is said to have threatened to kill his mother.

Hospital officials believe that Henry secured his revolver from friends who visited him in his padded cell.

When an attendant entered his cell to leave food for Henry, the negro covered him with a revolver, backed him against the wall and stepped from the cell. The door was automatically locked as the maniac closed it.

The negro met several guards and attendants on his way out but covered by the revolver they dared not attempt to stop him.

Henry is a light negro, has a glass eye, is five feet five inches tall and weighs 135 pounds.

WINTHROP BOY DEAD; ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Stewart Macvicker, fifteen years old, accidentally shot himself with a 22-calibre rifle at his home, No. 23 Charles street, Winthrop, and subsequently died at the East Boston relief hospital. The boy's mother, Mrs. Anna Hopper, and her husband, James Hopper, reported that the boy got up from the supper table, took his rifle from its place behind the door and started upstairs. He had hardly reached the top of the stairs when they heard the report and saw the lad tumbling down the stairway with a rifle shot in his temple. It was wholly accidental, they say.

VACATION DAYS FOR 124,000 END

Vacation days for 124,000 Boston Public School children ended tonight. The schools open tomorrow. There will be 2,500 more children in the schools this year than last. The school house commission has six new buildings ready. These replace thirty portable buildings and enable all children to attend school full time except in Dorchester and East Boston High Schools, in which 15 per cent attend on two-platoon system.

TRANSFER LEVIATHAN TO SHIPPING BOARD

New York, Sept. 4.—For the first time today the steamship Leviathan was in possession of the United States lines. The actual transfer of the great liner from F. H. and W. F. Gibbs, engineers who reconditioned her, to the Shipping Board fleet, took place at one minute after midnight this morning.

Representatives of the Shipping Board, experts, shipmasters, mechanics and accountants, worked for hours making the inspections and inventories preceding the transfer.

PLUMBER DROWNS WHILE SWIMMING

While swimming near the pumping station at Salem Willows, Joseph Slattery, 55 years old, a plumber, of 29 Hanson street, Salem, suddenly sank. A few minutes later, although not missed by other bathers, his body was found floating on the surface.

'LULLABY' HAS PREMIER AT COLONIAL

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

THE frankest exposition of vice and loose living ever brought to the local stage gave the reopening of the Colonial Theatre last night an aerial taste that was not washed away by the brilliant interpretations of Florence Reed in Edward Knoblock's newest play, "The Lullaby."

In this drama of fallen and depraved women Miss Reed was carried through sixty years of wormwood and gall, and held up to play well in a characterization that put her talents to the utmost which failed to yield an han passing pleasure. Knoblock has unquestioncontributed something gen to dramatic literature in this s, sour story, but he left very for wholesome minded peo to take without making a wry dicated "to the woman that have forgotten," the author dragged his characters gh the gutters of the world finally dumped them into the Through twelve scenes Reed's unhappy Madelon is a stony road from an early reckless to blatant prostitu and the journey is attended much wringing of hands, by ia, rasping coughs and what was the old story retold that a the woman who pays," and of the entire collection of racters thrown into the play he Knoblock there was not one, ept Madelon, that exhibited a deeming human trait. And adelon, who sunk to the lowest epths, who traded in vice when ave turned out to be a delusion, sent to the Job from 1860 to 1923. This is probably the long distance record for sustained sinning.

MAN WHO PAYS."

Miss Reed's rare gifts in the expression of deep emotion had a sorry trial, not through any disqualification of her own efforts but through the bad company was in. Somebody suggested that "The Lullaby" was merely strong dramatic meat, a little raw but still palatable.

HARD, COLD DRAMA.

If the truth must be told, it was hard, cold drama served raw. Miss Reed, who was pretty much all there was to the evening, gave a performance that will stand for some time as a standard of artistic endeavor. She travelled sixty long years of degradation that roused your sympathy, but you wouldn't care to have your young folk see her in action.

It has been reported that "The Lullaby" has been tested well for the local engagement, which arouses a natural curiosity regarding the original manuscript, which is being reserved for New York, where perhaps the natives are more blase and less particular.

Howbeit bitter the cup, "The Lullaby" is a brilliantly written play—a straight from the shoulder drama, of an unpleasant phase of life. The serious professors of the drama will unquestionably acclaim it a great and noteworthy addition to our silent, artistic possessions. But it did manage to give the Colonial something of a blush start for its new season.

TOM MIX COMEDY IN NEW BILL AT FENWAY

The Fenway Theatre has entered upon a new policy, involving the presentation of a feature photoplay in conjunction with a balanced bill of shorter subjects. The opening bill yesterday included Tom Mix in "Soft Boiled," a film comedy, "This Way Out"; an educational feature, "The Speed Demon," and news pictures. Mix is seen in a delightful comedy role that has its attendant thrills in the weaving of a pretty romance.

Dudley Pickman, Jr., a Popular Bachelo of North Shore, Says Betty Alden

ROBERT F. HERRICK, JR.

He and his family are spending part of the Summer at Manchester-by-the-Sea. He is a member of the Dedham polo team.

By Betty Alden.

ONE of the most popular bachelors along the North Shore is Dudley L. Pickman, Jr., wherewith we add him to our "Who's News Along the North Shore."

Mr. Pickman lives with his parents at Beverly Cove during the Summer months, the Winter home being on Beacon street. He's quite a bridge fiend and a good deal of a golf enthusiast; in fact, he has charge, I believe, of the latter sport at the Myopia Hunt Club.

He's also a prominent member of the Eastern Yacht Club, usually going on the annual cruise of the club. On these occasions his companion is generally Harold S. Vanderbilt, who is a very good friend of his and who spends the mid-Summer months at "Round Plain Farm," the Caswell place at Beverly Farms.

Mr. Pickman is a tall, dark man, with a distinctly reserved manner. Unlike many of the most popular members of the sterner sex retaining their single blessedness, he cares little for herpetheream indulgences. He's a Harvard man of the 1907 class, and a member of the Somerset, Country, Essex County, Exchange, Tennis and Racquet and Myopia Hunt Clubs.

MRS. HERBERT W. MASON is opening her Ipswich estate, "Candlewood Farm" this afternoon for a reading by Miss Eloise S. Hersey, who will speak on the "Modern Drama and Its Relation to Modern Women." Tea will be served after the reading, which begins at 3.30 o'clock. It is being given for the benefit of the Ascension Memorial Church in Ipswich.

MR. AND MRS. ALBERT C. BURRAGE of Pride's Crossing are expected to return from Europe next month. The exquisite orchids raised on the Burrage estate are known far and wide for their rare beauty.

OF the many Shore folk having house-parties over the holiday was Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, whose Pride's Crossing estate known as "Pompeya's Garden," is one of the most magnificent along the Shore. Her guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lowber Welsh, Dr. James P. Hutchinson and Wilson Cadwerwood, all of Philadelphia.

MR. AND MRS. QUINCY A. SHAW, JR., (Augustine van Wickles), who spent most of the Summer months at "Pompeya's Garden," visited friends on an island off the Maine coast, later going for a brief sojourn in the Adirondacks before returning to Pride's.

ROBERT F. HERRICK, JR., pictured above on his favorite mount, is one of the Dedham polo team's strongest players. Mr. and Mrs. Herrick, Jr., and their baby have been spending the latter part of the season on the North Shore, where they have the Morgan place on Smith's Point, Manchester.

Mrs. Herrick, who was formerly Miss Thelma Hall, is not only very pretty, but an exceptionally clever painter as well. Mr. Herrick's parents, the Robert F. Herricks of Milton, are at present traveling abroad. Mr. and Mrs. Herrick, Sr., were married last October at Westwood. Mrs. Herrick being Mrs. Margaret F. Perkins Rice, widow of the late George T. Rice.

NEGRO COMEDY REOPENS THE SELWYN

Negroes and jazz will be part of the entire Winter's entertainment. They have come to stay in "Runnin' Wild," the new Miller and Lyles contraption of dusky beauties and African music, which swung into view at the Selwyn Theatre last night.

Miller and Lyles received an unusual ovation when they appeared with their band of Negro fun-makers. Their comedy and dancing showed characteristically good technique, and their advanced mathematics brought laughs from the audience's boots.

Ginger Brown, otherwise known as Roi Lee, gave considerable impetus to the start of the show which rarely lagged throughout. Wesley Hill, Arthur Porter, Clarence Robinson Harvey, Paul Floyd and Miss Revella Hughes all contributed to the success of "Runnin' Wild" in individual performances, which were supported by equally good chorus work on the part of the rest of the cast.

"Open Your Heart," "Ginger Brown," "Old Fashion Love" and "Jungle Land" were particularly well received, being melodies of strong rhythm and typically Negro. Striking costumes of great variety featured the show.

ROLLICKING FUN IN SHOW AT GAYETY

The rollicking riotous fun of "Kronsemeyer's Alley," as presented by "Billy Watson's Beauties," with Billy himself leading the ructions, brought gales of laughter from matinee and evening audiences at the Gayety Theatre yesterday.

FRENCH FARCE IN FILM AT THE STATE

Gloria Swanson's picturization of Alfred Savoir's French comedy, "Bluebeard's 8th Wife," was shown at Loew's State Theatre yesterday. Miss Swanson is supported by Huntley Gordon, Charles Green, Paul Weigel and Robert Agnew. A companion picture, "Shadows of the North," with William Desmond, was also shown. There were also news and comedy reels.

'CAT AND CANARY' AT THE PLYMOUTH

"The Cat and the Canary," a mystery play by John Willard, opened the new season at the Plymouth with a matinee yesterday. With a few exceptions the company was the same that played for an entire season in New York and for thirty-six weeks in Chicago. Next to "The Bat" this shock play held last season's record for stage thrills. It will be reviewed at length in Wednesday's Boston American.

PARK SHOWING THRILLING FILM PLAY

The Park Theatre resumes its usual policy this week of exhibiting first run feature photoplays, with the presentation of "Merry-Go-Round." This picture is now being shown for the first time in Boston after a successful run in New York.

It is a representation of the pre-war vice, corruption and licentiousness which reigned in Vienna. The title is derived from the figure of the ever revolving machine which represents the whirling, mad vortex of life, love and passion. The quest of pleasure, the devotion to selfish amusement, and insatiable dissipation runs throughout the film, lending a touch of mad ecstasy to the ensemble.

NOTED TENOR IS KEITH HEADLINER

Tom Burke, the noted tenor, who has appeared many times on Boston concert platforms, showed the audience at Keith's yesterday that he has not lost any of his old time charm, nor his drawing power.

A condensed version of Al Woods well-known play, "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" is well played and who ever arranged the tabloid left out none of the rapid action and smart dialogue that made the original play the success it was.

Ed Janis has a tuneful revue which is well staged. Others who contributed were Santos and Hayes, old time Keith favorites. The Castillians and Crafts and Haley. Aesops fables and a news reel rounded out the bill.

"HOLLYWOOD" MOVES TO THE ORPHEUM

"Hollywood," one of the greatest entertainments of the screen, was shown yesterday at Loew's Orpheum Theatre. The story of "Hollywood" is based on a novelette of the same name written by Frank Condon, and deals with the trials and tribulations of a middle western family who go to California and whose daughter tries to get into the movies. Vaudeville features were also presented, headed by James C. Morton and family.

Remaining Plays

WILBUR—"Sally, Irene and Mary," with Eddie Dowling. Frolicking musical comedy.

TREMONT—"The Rise of Rosie O'Reilly," done in the best of George M. Cohan's musical play style.

MAJESTIC—"The Covered Wagon," a picture play adapted from Emerson Hough's popular novel of the early West.

TREMONT TEMPLE—Mrs. Wallace Reid in "Human Wreckage." Moving picture crusade against the narcotic evil.

LOVE AND PASSION IN 'MERRY-GO-ROUND'

SCENE IN PARK THEATRE FILM

COMEDY DRAMA PLEASES AT ST. JAMES

"Alias Nora O'Brien," a comedy drama by Marion Short and Lynne Osborne, is the attraction this week at the St. James Theatre. It is a real attraction. Incidentally, this is the first time this play has been produced on any stage.

Adelyn Bushnell, as Lady Constance Darcy, is at her best in the part of a lady who is playing the role of Lady Bountiful in the cities of an Irish maid. Walter Gilbert shares the honors with Miss Bushnell.

The story is really a simple one in which an old couple are about to be thrown out of their home because of lack of funds. Lady Darcy comes to the rescue by an ingenious method and saves the day. There is a pretty love story in the play, but it would spoil it to tell about it here. It will be much more pleasing to see it work out on the stage.

Ralph Remley, in the role of a bogus English lord, is a perfect scream. Anna Layng, Harold Chase, Samuel Godfrey and Frederick Murray also did much to make the performance a success last night.

A word in praise of the staging and settings would not be amiss here. All in all, it is an admirable play; well presented.

'TAKE A CHANCE' SCORES HIT AT HOLLIS

A musical show that is distinctive is "Take a Chance," which opened at the Hollis Theatre this week.

Unlike many so-called girl and music shows, this vehicle has clever principals, excellent dancing, catching tunes, an attractive chorus and a real plot. Rather a unique combination. In addition one must not forget the playing of the Vincent Lopez orchestra.

There are several songs in the show that compare favorably with some of the light operas that have lived for many years. Then there are catchy, jazzy tunes that set the audience awaying. Practically everyone in the cast can dance well. Little Nellie Breen heads the list of dancers.

Joe Mack comes in for a share of the glory, and Miss Sibylla Bowman, who apparently is constructed of India Rubber, furnishes no small part in the dancing of the show. Leeta Corder, who plays the role of heroine, sings the heavier bits admirably.

The show revolves around the efforts of a penniless young inventor who has fallen in love with a wealthy heiress whose name he does not know. It all comes out well in the end, as usual, when he finds out that the girl is really the young lady to whom he is engaged.

REVUE SCORES TRIUMPH AT SHUBERT

In "I'll Say She Is," which opened the Shubert Theatre last night, Joseph M. Gaites and James P. Beury, the sponsors of this entertaining revue, have set a mark which other theatres in town will find mighty hard to beat at any time throughout the coming season.

The Four Marx Brothers, Herbert, Leonard, Julius and Arthur, are the featured players, and any one of them alone would be a whole show in himself.

In the twenty-four scenes which go to make up the revue the brothers work incessantly. In all of them they are good, but in two—the court room and the one depicting the life of Napoleon and Josephine—they fairly bring down the house.

To mention any one player as outstanding would be to print almost a complete list of the cast but among the men John Thorne, always a favorite of Boston theatregoers, John Clarke and Harry Walters, Maurice Holland and William Haggart surely should be complimented for their excellent work.

The feminine members of the cast are headed by Alice Cavanaugh, Lotta Miles and Florence Hedges. All are stunning. Good voices together with graceful dancing add to their charms. Others who please are the Bower Sisters and the Melvin Sisters, a double duo of charming dancers; Cecile D'Andrea, Beulah Baker, Jane Hurd and Helen Martin.

The chorus is not only pretty but capable as well. Costuming and staging is of the best. An added attraction is one of the best jazz bands in captivity. It is billed as Yerkes' "Happy Six" but there are nine of them and they play like demons.

"THE EXCITERS" AT THE SOMERVILLE

A warm greeting was given the Somerville Theatre Players at the performance yesterday. The play was "The Exciters." Martin Brown's metropolitan hit of last season, which was presented yesterday for the first time in Greater Boston. The new members of the company were liberally applauded. As the flapper heroine, Jean Oliver was delightful, and Leslie Adams gave a fine interpretation to a difficult role. Ann Page, Robert Lawrence, Louise Huntington and Etta Frederic, all newcomers, and Frank Thomas, Philip Sheffield, Frank Peck and Hallett Brown, old favorites, were cordially received.

Coming Events

"Barnum Was Right" will be the attraction at the St. James Theatre next week.

Shea and His Band will give two concerts in Symphony Hall on Sunday, September 16.

"Thanks-U" will take the stage at the Hollis on Monday September 24.

Ballet's "Romance Rouge" will be the attraction at the Shubert beginning Monday, October 1.

Year's Best Selling Novel Reveals Mysterious Return of Youth and Beauty to Old Woman

START THIS BEST-SELLER HERE TODAY

A young and beautiful woman creates a sensation at a first night in New York by rising in her seat at the theatre and coolly surveying the audience through her glasses after the European fashion. Lee Chavering, a brilliant newspaper writer, is immediately interested, and learns she is the niece of a former society belle, Mary Ogden, though much younger than she should be at that time. He follows Mary home from the theatre and aids her to get into the house, as she has lost her key. She invites him in and tells him she is Countess Josef Zattiany. He nearly guesses her secret. He asks her to marry him. He takes her to a gay studio party after which she invites him home to hear her story of renewed youth. He is stunned by the revelation. Meanwhile, Janet Oglethorpe, flapper daughter of one of Chavering's intimate friends, confesses her love for him.

READ ON. THE THRILLS COME FAST

"Jane Oglethorpe would have been justified in never speaking to me again"

"BETTER than nothing . . . however—here's an idea. I'll get to work on my play at once and maybe I can finish it before I leave. If it went over big I could stay longer. Besides, it'll be something to boil over into; I don't suppose I shall see any too much of you . . .

"What's to stop you? . . . Those young men of your own world and class you're so fond of? . . . Or, more? It would be a shame to waste an idea that's all set and ripe to . . ."

"Certainly not," she said with gentle scorn. "Since I've made the resolution of my life to dance with you I'm not going to break it. I'll see what young Yale was talking about today. He seems to be a different language from those men I've met in my time. But it is a convenient and dinners, for now I shall have friends with whom I am not disloyal and generously devoted. Therefore would have to part with me, and I never expect to see again, and I have one of the most sacred traditions of the others. I'm at least as much one I'll be in love with me, after a much longer keen upon to the task. I have the promise to form a company . . . the children of Austria."

"Well, if it's that, We'll marry two months from today. I can finish my play in that time, and I want you for a day longer."

"Very well . . . I met Mary Lawrence on the street the other day. I told her she needed to marry her at once. She is extremely beautiful and I've never seen different languages from those men I've met Americans. Why didn't you?"

"Because she wasn't you, I suppose. Did she stick a little below the belt into you?"

"It's with her eyes. She made me feel quite the age I had left behind me in Vienna." And then she added irresistibly, "Do you think you would like me if I were old?"

"Are you serious? . . . I've been in love with you for years, but I've never had the courage to tell you. I've been afraid you would laugh at me, if you—if we had met in Vienna before that time?"

"No. I laughed at Wotan a question I should have loved you in one way, as I do now—with that part of me that was capable of loving. You are the first and never will be the last."

"Then you will marry me?"

"I should like to . . . I am very fond of you . . . and you possess the power to make me young."

He drew her down beside him on the couch and, after a moment of silence, said:

"Tell me more about yourself. I know you are extraordinarily interesting, but I was too full of myself to ask questions. Are you really as old as you look? Are you—"

"I am going to wait until I am ready to tell you. Not now. I'll begin at the beginning, and you will have to be patient. I am going to make you understand me, if you can. And now I do want to talk . . .

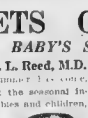
SECRETS OF HEALTH

BABY'S SICK ROOM

By Charles A. L. Reed, M.D.

NOW that Summer has come, and with it the seasonal increase of sick babies and children, it is important to give thought to their surroundings.



Dr. Reed.

As I write this there constantly comes before my eyes the millions of families crowded into our cities, where subjected to the heat of terrid Summers, they must do the best they can for the care of their sick babies.

The room to be selected for the sick baby—the baby that is in for a siege—ought to be the best, the quietest, the airiest and the sunniest room in the house.

If all these qualities cannot be found in any one room choose a room for its sun and its sunlight and make it quiet.

Take out the bric-a-brac, take down the curtains and remove other dust-catchers and germ disseminators.

Clean and dry the room thoroughly.

Place the bed near the window just out of the draught and away from the direct rays of the sun.

Put baby in the bed and place on a nearby table only the things necessary for the care of the patient.

Then let someone, preferably a competent nurse, take charge.

All others will stay out unless needed. Mother may come in once in a while to comfort her baby or relieve the nurse in charge.

No visiting.

No unnecessary talking, no prolonged conversation, especially no conversation in an undertone.

To avoid this complication it is better to have only one person in the room at a time, with another to come in only when temporarily needed.

This is especially important if a trained nurse is in charge. Give her a chance to gain the child's confidence. She can do it much more quickly if Mother stays out. After that, the two will get along better if Mother doesn't meddle.

It is better for Mother, then, to stay out of the sick baby's room as much as possible.

The nurse in order per best service must have a few hours out of the house during the day and a reasonable amount of uninterrupted sleep.

But remember, the essentials of baby's sickroom are

No. 1—the most important of all remedies.

Sunlight—the next most important curative aid.

Quiet—to save every possible bit of baby's energy.

Wise nursing—to secure intelligent attention to the baby's necessities.

Proper medical supervision—to interpret the case and direct every phase of treatment until baby is well again.

"Can the leopard change his spots?" sneered Park. "Can anything make Bonnie Buchanan what he—he is?"

"Maybe he loves Mabel. Maybe he'll change," I ventured.

Park laughed even more.

"Maybe the sun will rise in the West some morning."

"There, there, I'm sorry I mentioned him. Now, Mr. Park, what do you propose to do?"

"Whose work is this, anyway, mine if it isn't mine. Please answer me."

DEMPSEY TAKES THREE GIANTS IN TURN

By Universal Service

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 4. ... They tossed 500 pounds more or less of human flesh into the ring with Jack Dempsey ... big bout was ... Labor Day and they figure the champion needed work.

He face a crowd that numbered around 7,000 ... under a sizzling sun. Dempsey first took on George Godfrey, weight 215, then Former Lodge, 225, and finally Jack McAuliffe, 206.

The affair with Lodge, who is about as tall, within a trifle more and as almost as powerful as Firpo, was a lallapalooza. Lodge was invited to tear in and Dempsey invited himself to do likewise. They roughed and slugged. Lodge tried several times to land that famous uppercut but failed. But he did land a few smashes to the head and a couple to the body.

"I wish I hadn't," gasped Lodge when it was all over. I thought if I'd bounce a few off Dempsey that he wouldn't rush and slam me. But when I hit him he got madder and then well, look at me.

GREB READY TO MEET MALONE-BOGASH VICTOR IN BOSTON

TITLE BOUT PLANED BY SUFFOLK

By JACK CONWAY

Jack Malone or Lou Bogash, who battle in a ten round bout at the Suffolk A. A.'s show at the Boston Arena on Friday night, will be the next opponent of Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion. Matchmaker Tom Goodwin is prepared to stage the contest in this city.

Nate Lewis, Malone's pilot, has agreed to terms for a match with Greb. Joe Smith, acting for Bogash, has also announced he would be glad to let his protege meet Greb in this city.

The champion has not concealed the fact that he is disgusted with the treatment that has been accorded him in New York and that he would prefer risking his championship in Boston.

As there is more interest in middleweights in Boston than in any other city in the country, a title bout here would draw a tremendous crowd. It is estimated that Wilson and Greb would have played to three times as many people if they had fought here instead of in Gotham.

MALONE AND BOGASH CLASS WITH GREB

The tussle between Malone and Bogash is the nearest thing to a title bout that could be arranged. This contest brings together two of the world's leading middleweights. Either would be an even money choice against Greb in a contest at 160 pounds.

The Suffolk A. A. was obliged to snag up one of the largest purses in the history of the city in order to land this bout. Each boxer will receive a large guarantee as well as a big percentage gate split. The two are will probably divide as much money as Wilson and Greb did in their championship bout.

Malone is recognized as middleweight champion of the world in Ohio and several other States. When Wilson was reinstated in New York an effort was made to match the former Charlestown man with Malone. Wilson preferred taking on Greb as he thought it would be easier to defeat the Pittsburgh buzz saw then it would be to conquer the masterful Malone.

Malone, like Jack Britton at his best, is a marvelous boxer. He never makes a false move, while he is able to punch hard from all angles.

MICKEY WALKER LOST TO MALONE HERE.

Malone has fought some of his greatest battles in this city. Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, was numbered among his victims.

Bogash, like Malone, is rated at the very top of the middleweight division. The Bridgeport man has been an active campaigner fighting often as frequently as twice a week. His relentless fighting methods have enabled him to win sixty-two straight contests.

Bogash says he will add one more victory to his long string on Friday night. By so doing he plans to even up an old score with Malone. The two men battled at the Arena a couple of years ago. On that occasion Malone outpointed Bogash for six rounds. Lou then solved his opponent's style, made a hurricane finish and won the last four rounds. The decision went to Malone by the narrowest of margins.

Bogash says now that he knows Malone's style and so he won't have to delay his spurt as long as he did when he last fought the St. Paul flash.

Grids Greatest Year at Hand, Says Casey

By NICK FLATLEY

The greatest football year of a decade is looking around the corner according to Bo Casey, former wonder feather weight halfback at Harvard, present coach of Tufts football.

Eddie is getting ready for a busy Fall by selling sporting goods for the well known Mr. Spalding. He is a hustling young man on the job, too, as all the embryo gridiron stars want to do business with him. Youthful hero worshipers like to discover that their idols are human after all, and Eddie proves it for them.

The kids of the world give the most accurate line on any form of popular sport. And all the kids are buying football as guides and things like that.

The biggest rush in history is on, according to salesman Eddie, and that before school is open, or the Summer is dead, or real football weather is near.

When the playground gang and the schoolboys start a big drive on any one particular pastime you can tell the world that said sport is going to have a great national picnic. And that's the way it looks for football in this rapidly passing year.

Late Opening at Tufts

The game came back to all its pre-war glory and effectiveness several years since and is right on the way once more to prove itself more popular than the more ancient and more widely known diamond sport, generally called baseball.

Slight Mister Casey, who looks a lot more like a serious student of the ologies than a hero of the battles of college giants, doesn't start drilling his own squad on Medford Hillside for a couple of weeks yet.

There are plenty of rules at Tufts which make football more or less hectic for the coaches who want to turn out good teams. But he's getting things lined up as well as he can for the ten-day stretch that must get his squad in shape for the opening game.

Tufts, a small college, with a freshman rule, doesn't open till September 17, and practice cannot start before that time. Part of the college is in Medford, part in Boston, so it's a tough rattle getting all the athletes around to working sessions.

Sonditions are all against anything like a championship team over on the hillside, but, with Casey introducing the famous Harvard system, good football is surely on the way.

In other words, Tufts has taken on all sorts of tough opponents, but this Fall it will be different. The Casey athletes will have plenty of hard, rigorous games, but they will not be walking into pre-ordained defeats.

The big game on their list comes with Harvard on November 3, the usual small team game the Crimson sandwiches in between the Dartmouth and Princeton collisions.

Tufts will hardly expect to win that joust, but, as Cambridge subs will be getting their last real workout, the little chaps will have a chance to make a real reputation for themselves.

Other games on the Medford schedule are with Middlebury, Lowell Textile, the Mass. Aggies, Wesleyan, Bowdoin and Bates. Plenty of real competition there, as several of these teams are gradually climbing to a spot where they have to be figured in with the big parade.

Young Mister asey, who has all the earmarks of a fine coach, doesn't have any hordes of assistants. Money isn't thrown away on athletics at Medford. Neither is there any campaign to collect young stars. What material there is comes of its own accord.

This perhaps lives up to the standards set by the sport idealists. But it doesn't help to push over touchdowns, or kick field goals, or make the name of the college famous all around the land.

It doesn't get around the fact, either, that most of the rivals still do a lot of proselyting, although not in the open and nonchalant fashion of the good old days.

Now the boys only needed to know what train to take from the old home town to get a complete college education. Now they have to thumb their books, and know a lot, and the chap who can do this and still be a good athlete naturally heads, or is steered, toward one of the famous institutions.

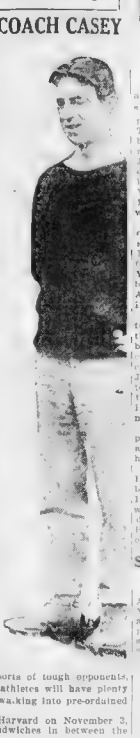
Coach Casey has one official assistant, Walter Cleary who takes charge of the freshmen. Walter was a Harvard footballer, too, and naturally is helping to introduce a form of the Crimson system.

All other coaching is voluntary, done by chaps like Ollie Wescott, probably Tufts greatest grid star, and present coach of the freshmen team, there.

Regardless of handicaps, quite a lot of real material answers the grid call, and the team will start out this Fall with eight regulars from last year's snappy outfit.

Several of the players are real All America material, according to Coach Eddie, and will carve out great reputations if they can get a few minor luminaries to help them along.

Which reminds us that Tufts had an All-America team last year if any college ever did. There was a Pole, a Frenchman, a negro, a Swede, two Hebrews, a couple of Irishmen and several native Americans on the first squad, and there will be another conference of the nations when the boys gather a couple of weeks hence.



COACH CASEY

WIN BY JULIAN MEANS GO WITH DUNDEE

Scotty Monteith, who is once more a close adviser of Johnny Dundee, says the featherweight champion is prepared to give Tony Julian a bout. It will be remembered that Julian decisively defeated the celebrated Scotch boy at Madison Square Garden last winter.

Before Julian can get any consideration from Dundee, he must [illegible] of New York, whom he met in the feature bout of ten rounds at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House recently.

That is quite an assignment, Clinton has proved a riot in New York this year, winning twelve straight bouts. He has also a win to his credit over Julian and believes he can repeat the feat. In justice to Julian, it should be stated that he [illegible] twelve hours' notice as a substitute. He didn't do any training for the match.

For the past month Jack Burns' protege has been training regularly and should be in good condition when he enters the ring.

There will also be three eights Harry Foley of the North End will battle Young Theroux of Nashua, N. H.; Terry Carr of the South End will meet Tommy O'Brien of the same district while George La Barre of Brockton will oppose Tommy Marks of the North End.

What makes the "Wild Bull of the Pampas" wild?

Dr. William H. Walker, official medical examiner for the New York State Boxing Commission, today gives his views on the subject of the dread right to the body and right to the back of the head that have felled so many of Luis Angel Firpo's opponents, bringing them to a state of utter collapse.

Those who have seen Firpo in his bouts will recall that Brennan in the Garden, Willard at Boyle's Thirty Acres, and Wenbert in Philadelphia, all sank to the floor, powerless to continue fighting, after a series of punches to the head and body had worn them down.

In the passing of these three opponents of the Giant from Argentina there was nothing that resembled a single, decisive punch.

Firpos' punches were not those of a [illegible] hitter, a sharpshooter. Yet the results were as highly satisfactory, as far as stopping his man was concerned, as the most accurate punisher could have desired.

The end came, to Brennan, Willard and Wenbert when they sank to the floor completely done up. But the [illegible] was the result of forward any ONE punch that sent them down.

FIRPO'S FINISHING PUNCH EXPLAINED IN DETAIL

Out in Indianapolis, Joe Downey, Firpo's last opponent, collapsed AFTER the fight with Firpo, and was unconscious for several hours. Which is the contest had been waged with sixteen-ounce gloves.

It was to satisfy the curiosity of The American readers on the strange effect of the Firpo punching that Dr. Walker was asked to explain the "Firpo finish."

"Before attempting the explanation of the cause of the collapse [illegible] of which Firpo [illegible] when the ordinary knockout punch to the jaw is delivered," Dr. Walker said.

"The effect is as if the brain were suddenly jerked up and dashed against the back of the skull.

"The knockout punch is delivered to the head [illegible] toward the punch. [illegible] resultant [illegible] and [illegible] of [illegible] a split [illegible] man is out.

"One of Firpo's peculiar punches is that which lands on the back of the head [illegible] the [illegible] is the same as that of a punch on the jaw, but as it is not to impossible to get a clean punch at the back of a man's head for obvious reasons.

It is only when a Firpo comes along with his wide, sweeping swings that actually curl around the head, that you find any sort of efficiency in these back-of-the-ear and rabbit punches. But at best their effect depends upon their sweepiness.

"The Firpo club-punch that he brings down on the back of an opponent's head, as the latter is bent over, has much the same effect as a straight punch on the jaw, save that the head is not coming toward the blow, but rather giving with it.

"I might say that it is this punch alone of all his back-of-the-head assortment that might cause a sudden knockout.

"What I say of Firpo's punches [illegible] around the head holds true of those he starts toward the front of the body.

"Where Dempsey punches straight out and makes his target the front of the body, Firpo's sweeps carry his gloved fists around the body, so that they land on his opponent's sides.

"As there is no vulnerable spot at the sides of a man it stands to reason that no one punch landing there will stop him.

"Thus it is that Firpo's knockouts, if such they can be called, come after a series of thudding punches to the body, particularly to the left side, the natural target for the sweep of Firpo's left [illegible]

"That is why Brennan and Willard and Wetnert went down and could not get up, though very few, if any, the body was the one that floored [illegible] Wenbert [illegible] Willard [illegible] to the floor.

While I had not seen the Downey fight, from all accounts his collapse was the result of the same steady pounding. It was purely accidental that the collapse took place after the bout was over.

The duration of it was doubtless occasioned by the number of punches that Firpo landed on Downey's head and against his body.

"There is really nothing more unusual about Firpo's hitting effects than there is about Dempsey's. It merely happens that Firpo is a swinger and not a straight puncher. I do not think he is as hard a hitter as Dempsey, though both hit hard enough for all practical purposes.

DEMPSEY HIT HARDER THAN SOUTH AMERICAN.

I saw [illegible] Brennan on the arm and raise a blue mark larger than a silver dollar. It has never been that done by any other punch. But then, I saw Dempsey hit Brennan on the body, buckle him hammering at the one spot on the [illegible] and drive him to the floor with body brings this about. No single a punch to the back of the head punch delivered as Firpo sends it is [illegible] has [illegible] been.

"Afterwards I asked Brennan about it. He told me the punch to the back of the head [illegible] Willard had not seen the Downey [illegible] fight."

Fordson Operating Loader

Fordson Used As Locomotive

Ford 1-Ton Truck With Air Compressor

A manufacturer recently replaced a $4,000 hauling equipment in his plant with Fordsons and trailers. The Fordson equipment cost $1,300 and the work is done just as well.

Before you buy high priced equipment for your plant or continue to operate it if you have such equipment already, why not find out if a Fordson will fit your business and save you money?

Sixty demonstrations are in action every day from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. showing the many different uses the Fordson has been adapted to. If a Fordson will fit your business you want to know it.

Road work, excavating, host operation, heavy hauling and service as a locomotive are but a few of the interesting operations you will see.

At the agricultural exhibit the latest farm tools designed to go with the Fordson to make farming more profitable are shown

Something doing every minute. See if you can use a Fordson. It may save you money.

TRAVEL BRIEFS

NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

Under the auspices of the Maine State Chamber of Commerce, about 125 prominent residents of the State of Maine ... Portland on Sunday evening for a twenty-four day transcontinental trip to advertise New Dixie State throughout the far West and, incidentally, to enjoy the sights of the western country.

The eight-car special train is made up of the finest Pullman equipment, and consists of two baggage cars, two 10-compartment sleepers, one 2-drawing room and 7-compartment sleeper, two 2-drawing room and 10-section sleeper, and one 8-compartment observation car. The route will be via the Canadian National Railways to Vancouver, then via Great Northern, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Denver and Rio Grande Western, Rock Island Wabash and Grand Trunk.

Throughout Canada stops will be made at Montreal, Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Jasper and Vancouver. From Vancouver the party will go to Seattle, where a two day stop will be made. From there ... Sierras and Rocky Mountains ... stops of one day ... Salt Lake City, Denver and Chicago. Then via Grand Trunk ... Toronto. The return will be made via Niagara Falls to Montreal, where the party will break up.

At the various stops arrangements have been made for visits to points of interest. Some of these will take two days, and all points of interest in the various places that can be seen in a few hours have been scheduled so that the Pullet sleepers will be retained during daylight hours.

KENNEY AT GLACIER PARK

John H. Kenney, New England passenger agent of the Great Northern Railway, is now making his annual visit to Glacier Park and other points of interest along the Great Northern. Mr. Kenney left Boston during the past week and expects to be gone a month.

For two weeks Mr. Kenney will revisit the many interesting places in Glacier Park and inspect the numerous improvements which have been made since his last visit a year ago. One of the pleasures features of the trip and one which Mr. Kenney looks forward to with keenest anticipation is the opportunity of renewing his friendship with the other members of the famed Glacier Tribe of Blackfoot Indians. Because of his natural instincts, which is few of his most intimate friends in the East, know that Mr. Kenney is an ill-fledged member of the Blackfoot Tribe, but has been initiated into the mysteries many years ago in recognition of important services to the tribe and of his vast knowledge of ... and are deeply of outdoor life.

Mr. Kenney plans to fish and swim and ride mountain ponies on a tenderfoot party and do, in order to keep the viewpoint necessary in advising the business of New Englanders who annually visit the park. In entering into the spirit of sending several nights under the stars at one of the above named camps Mr. Kenney will be one of the boys and a good "old sport."

During the stay in the park Mr. Kenney expects to add to his collection of views from which he will make his illustrated lectures. He is one of the most complete in the country and has made it a hobby for years. He has many of views now owned by Mr. Kenney are

Are You An Inventor?

Capper's Weekly gives a list of inventions which, according to the Patent Office of Great Britain, are most needed at the present moment

This is the list:

Glass that will not break
A smooth road surface that will not be affected by wet weather
A furnace that will consume 95 per cent of its smoke
A process to make fabrics unshrinkable
A noiseless engine for an airplane that can be managed safely and easily by a boy or girl.
A motor engine of one pound weight per horsepower
Methods to make it rain
Paint that will not fade in sunlight
An express train that can run 600 miles and need not be stopped
A paper that can be burned cleanly and efficiently
A temperance drink that will keep and yet not pall on the palate
Taking moving pictures.

They already make a kind of glass that will not SHATTER. It does not break in big pieces, cutting passengers in case of an automobile collision. That SAFE glass should be used more often. Glass that will bend seems contrary to the "nature" of glass. You associate glass with absolute rigidity and brittleness

On the other hand, a glass IS made that resists bullets from a high-power revolver. The police in various cities have tried it as protection in motors from gunmen

Some progress has been made with talking moving pictures. But many believe that the picture will be less interesting when it talks

Anybody that could invent a practical way to harness the tides and extract from the ocean its limitless power—which is the power of the moon pulling the water upward—would have a fortune great enough for ten thousand men

The difficulties with all inventions are numerous. First, the man that has the inventive mind often lacks the mechanical faculty. He cannot put into mechanical form what he invents.

Second, the man that makes the invention is very often lacking in business sense and is frequently robbed of his idea. He gets the idea, somebody else GETS THE MONEY.

Third, the government, which should be on the alert for new inventions, at least in its own line—war, flying, etc—apparently does all that it can to discourage invention. This was especially evident in the war.

However, there are difficulties in everything, from digging a ditch to catching your straw hat when it blows off.

Try the above inventions if you think you are an inventor. But please don't write to this newspaper about them. We can neither interest ourselves in inventions, give information about them nor promote them. Some of our own still remain nebulous for reasons above set forth.

Bricks in Egyptian Fashion

There is intelligence lacking somewhere in the production of building materials. One man is bringing two hundred million bricks from Holland to undersell American brickmakers. The high cost of our brick, added to the high cost of laying them, makes building prohibitive. It is a disgrace to American inventive genius and common sense.

We make bricks as the Egyptians made them five thousand years ago. And we lay them in the same dull, careless, slow, painful way, one at a time, adding to the slowness the restrictions of labor unions, to protect the men from overdriving.

Bricks should be made by machinery at half the cost. If this country is intelligent enough to raise rice in competition with Japan, and beat the Japanese on cost, it ought to be able to manufacture brick in competition with Holland, with freight across the ocean added to the Dutchman's price.

Victor Berger Returns

Victor Berger, only Socialist member of Congress, returns from Europe with a message that the nations there are tottering. If Germany collapses as she probably will, France will be dragged down with her is part of his message.

Victor Berger repeats that the United States should not have gone into the war. He believes that we should go now and help poor Europe out of the CONSEQUENCES of the war. Making reasonable allowance for his own particular leanings, it is wise to pay attention to what Victor Berger says. There are few men in public life in this country, possibly a dozen, probably not half a dozen, that know and understand the history of this world as well as he does.

However, the United States probably will NOT undertake to straighten out Europe's affairs. If we made one mistake in the heat of war, that's no reason for making another mistake in a fit of mushy sentimentalism AFTER the war.

Lesson for ALL Lawmakers

And for Kings and Presidents

Two English members of Parliament, carrying on their backs the soldier's regulation load, knapsack, rifle, complete outfit, engaged in the twenty-three-mile walking match. Both fell, fainting, the first after fifteen miles, and one man's heart collapsed. The best they could average was four miles an hour. One was ordered out of the race by his doctor.

That's more than a foolish, useless contest. It's a good suggestion.

If every member of Congress and every public official, including Kings, Emperors and Presidents, had to walk twenty-three miles with a soldier's full equipment under the hot sun, before declaring war, war might not come so often.

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a black coat for a lady, [illegible] and [illegible] overcoat for [illegible] of fifteen, also two suit [illegible] young men's size 37, that [illegible] for some one. Intend [illegible] some money to the fund, [illegible] did not know there were [illegible] poor people. I will try to do one best I can.

MRS. H. H. S.

Many thanks. You have been sent the address of Mrs. F. D., to whom you may send the woman's coat, and the address of Mrs. M. McD. for the other things.

Editor's Thanks

The Helping Hand Editor again desires to thank the numerous persons whose generosity has aided materially in extending the Helping Hand to the less fortunate. Particular thanks is accorded those who have answered the appeal of Mrs. T. McK. shut in from the world by illness, with offers of magazines and other articles to help her while away dreary hours. Among these are Mrs. G. F. P., Mrs. S. L., G. M. D. and Mrs. F. L. R., to all of whom Mrs. T. McK.'s address has been sent.

A WISE MAN TRIES NEGOTIATIONS BEFORE ARMS

Great Britain, unable yet to hold Mussolini from the exaction of the sternest terms ever laid upon an offending modern State, turns prows to the theatre of another indefinite war, and continues to press for submission of the quarrel to the League of Nations, on whose table the crisis would be [illegible] cool for ninety days.

The mark plunges below twelve million to the dollar; [illegible] skidding; pound sterling has slipped. Money changers with nostrils keen as a vulture's eye, scent the reek of powder and forehear the clash of steel.

Woe to the world if volcanic hates erupt upon Europe. Imagination shudders to contemplate the annihilating forces at the command of combatants.

The coast of the continent would become as Pompeii. Dread vapors fouler than the fumes of traditional hell gases that melt brick and cement as so much snow—death breaths, one inhalation of which strips every membrane bare. bombing planes vaster than Sinbads' Roc are ready to blot out entire cities and whole communities.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON KINDS OF TELESCOPES

By Garrett P. Serviss

"WHAT are the principal advantages and disadvantages of a Newtonian reflecting telescope for amateur astronomical use?"

What would be the approximate magnifying power of a 10-inch reflector having a 9-foot focus, and using a good eyepiece?

"About how large would Jupiter, Saturn and Mars appear when viewed with the 10-inch reflector as compared with the moon? Expressed in degrees of arc?—F. M. W., Pittsburgh, Pa."

I AM glad to answer these questions because they show a growing popular interest in the use of the telescope.

Answer to Question No. 1.—A reflector is superior to a refractor on a consideration that I [illegible] is chiefly to bring all the rays of [illegible] parts of the spectrum are unequally refracted (turned from their course) in passing through the glass objective lens. The red rays are less refracted than the blue, so that they come to a focus farther from the object glass, with the result that the image of the object from which the rays emanate is blurred. By combining glass of different dispersion, the objective may [illegible] largely but not completely overcome.

The principal disadvantages are the need of greater care in preserving the optical qualities of the mirror, which sometimes needs resilvering, and less convenience in handling.

Question No. 2—The magnifying power of any telescope depends upon the ratio between the focal length of the particular eyepiece used and the focal length of the objective glass or mirror, which, of course, is unalterable. The character of the mirror, or objective, determines the quantity of light gathered at the focus and thus directly affects the magnifying power, since every increase in magnification uses up a greater amount of the light by spreading it over a broader surface.

I have [illegible] shown that the extreme magnifying power that can be effectively employed on any telescope is about 100 to the inch of aperture—aperture meaning the diameter of objective glass or mirror. Thus, with ten inches aperture the extreme available magnification would be 1000 times. But in practice, owing to atmospheric and other causes this would be reduced to not over 500. For most purposes only 200 or 200 would be used.

Question No. 3—The apparent size of a planet depends upon its distance from the earth. Jupiter when in opposition has an angular diameter of about forty-four seconds of arc. With a magnification of forty-two this becomes equal to the angular diameter of the moon. The diameter of Saturn's ring in opposition has a diameter of about twenty-four seconds and a magnification of seventy-five or eighty makes him equal in angular size to the moon.

THREE-MINUTE TRIPS

WHERE GENTLEMEN WEAR TWO WATCHES

By Temple Manning

CHINA is a country of constant surprises to a visitor from the Western world. He is forever seeing some new and interesting custom which astonishes him.

But these customs have not changed for thousands of years and each recalls to the stranger the civilization which was China's when the rest of the world which now prides itself on its civilization was inhabited by primitive man.

It was then that the Chinese wore beautiful robes which they made from silk—an unheard of fabric in Europe, for only the Chinese knew the secret of spinning silk. They had the compass, understood the mysteries of mathematics and played chess. Culture was at a high mark in China years before the beginning of the Christian era.

So naturally artistic were these people that it was in their country that the first real art of the world was developed—that of making the beautiful porcelains and coloring them exquisitely. No one has ever succeeded in rivaling the Chinese in this charming decorative art.

Even the Chinese dress is artistic. No more gorgeous attire is to be seen than that worn by a Chinese gentleman of high station or by a mandarin.

Of course, to the Westerner a Chinese gentleman's costume may seem only adapted for a fancy dress ball, but if he studies it he will see that it is not only a thing of beauty but that it is designed for comfort.

Even the ornaments which adorn the person of a rich Chinese gentleman are designed for use as well as beauty.

No Chinese gentleman will ever be in the position of not knowing the time of day—even if his watch has stopped. He guards against this annoyance by a very simple method. He wears two watches!

He Always Knows the Time.

This may appear amusing to the visitor, but to the Chinese it is simply a custom which has existed since there were watches. So his two watches he wears as unconsciously as a man in our country wears his cuff-links.

Why England Thinks Women's Tennis Clothes Should be Censored

The "Wear Knickers" Suggestion Has Been So Cordially Received That Future Exhibitions (and Pictures) May be Much Less Startling

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, Whose Pictures Showing Her in Extraordinary Attitudes Are Familiar to American as Well as English Readers.

Miss Evelyn Beckingham Rising to the Occasion in a One-Piece Tennis Costume at the Highbury, North London Championships.

ENGLAND is considering. It's a matter of the frocks women tennis players wear these days—are they as proper as some of the players who wear them indicate by their un-self-consciousness? Or are they improper as the Council of the English Lawn Tennis Association would have the public believe when it circularized secretaries of athletic clubs asking that press photographers be restrained from taking pictures of "an objectionable nature" of the women players?

England, of course, can't say exactly. If the complaining council had been more explicit, stating precisely what it found in the photographs of tennis champions, stars and other players there'd be something to base an opinion upon. Is it the four or five inches of exposed knee showing in the pictures where action is the startling feature that stamps them "objectionable?" Is it the arm-swinging, feet flinging pose of the enthusiasts?

Or is it the set of strange and almost grotesque lines of the figures that makes the pictures not quite all they should be?

At this last named circumstance constitutes the "objectionable" condition, England is all prepared to be rather uppish about it. For doesn't everyone of the world know that the lines of the figure are due largely to the sort of dress in which the figure is clad? And is it not a fact that the whole outfit in which women appear on the courts and wage their wars for glory in this current season is the direct expression of Gallic emotionalism which has seeped through the game—emotionless excepting for what it contains of love of sportsmanship—via the feminine player, and into the garments in which the game is conducted?

While England meditates in its best judicial manner the council of the English Lawn Tennis Association turns a meaningful eye upon the person of the Bernhardt of the courts—Suzanne Lenglen. For it is she who introduced into the sporting world the type of costume upon which has been founded all recent turn-outs of tennis stars both in America and abroad.

Ma'm'selle clothes herself in what has come to be known as the "Lenglen frock." It is fashioned of glistening white satin—which of all clinging fabrics is the most clinging—a garment of one piece, straight lined, yet full, with throat rounded low; sleeves but indications of such, and a string belt knotted about the skirt which billows high above the knees with each hurried movement. A white band securing her hair and white stockings complete the visible portion of the dress. Of course a large area of back, chest, arms, knees and limb are to be seen when the wearer of the "Lenglen frock" is doing her stuff.

Probably it is partly this exposed area that the council finds objectionable. Then also it is the neat, shining smoothness of the fitted portions of the gown up and down which high light and shadow race with astonishing effect.

Ma'm'selle has the privilege of wearing what type of garments she may please, the English Lawn Tennis Association admits. But undoubtedly the menace of it lies in the wholesale number of copies that now appear upon English devotees of the game including the illustrious performers and stars. Among them are Miss Rose, Miss Kitty McKane and Miss Peggy Ingram all of whom play a spectacular game.

In reply to the allegations of the English Lawn Tennis Association, American players, who likewise are inclined to adopt the Lenglen tennis costume, have one or two remarks to make not at all averse to the French woman's mode of dress.

"Supposing that the white satin wall-paper fitting dress does appear somewhat dramatic on a field devoted entirely to a contest of physical prowess," one of the leading women players stated. "Supposing the frock, catching light and shade with every movement of the wearer, does appear temperamental and affected?

"The fact of the matter is that emotions run through every action of life. They are the flame which prevents existence growing cold. And if the French champion finds herself so affected by losing a set or two that she bursts into tears and must be soothed by her father and mother before she may continue her playing, who shall criticize?

"American women have found the Lenglen gown to be practical, since it permits of free movement no matter how strenuous, and attractive because white sports satin is tasteful and simple."

"Of course," continued this woman player, "there isn't any superfluous material in the dress. We hope there never will be in any sports dress when we remember the things that May Sutton, greatest of her day, used to wear.

"She turned her shirt-waist in at the throat, leaving an inch or two for movement of the muscles. But her long sleeves were rolled above her elbows and her long, billowing skirt almost swept the earth, for the calf wasn't considered respectable in those days. Nor was lack of stays thought quite right, so the champion of her time went forth to conquer with her waist and hips held in a straight jacket of steel and whalebone."

Women were not startlingly proficient in athletic sports when May Sutton blazed the trail a decade or two ago to real achievement. And that their prowess has increased as the amount and weight of their clothing has decreased may be considered significant. No woman could perform one of the Lenglen cross-legged, toe-supported torso-twisted leaps to fame in a corset and seven-gored skirt!

England has not as yet settled upon what may prove to be a "proper" dress for women tennis players. British sex-consciousness, however, has invaded this country and even now is at work upon the commissioners of Jersey City. In a stern effort to outdo the doubts of the council of the English Lawn Tennis Association, the commissioners are considering ordinances likely to make Sunday in Philadelphia seem like a pay night in Gomorrah compared with certain days of the week—specially Sabbath—in the city across the river from New York. The idea back of the ordinances is to increase the efficiency of young business and professional men and women by helping them keep their minds on their work.

Following are what some of the ordinances may accomplish:

Placing long sleeves, caps that hide the hair, regulation uniforms, and no cosmetics or manicurists.

Establishing two feet of space between heads of manicurist and client at all times.

Limiting time of manicurist holding client's hand to one minute for each finger.

Meantime many who view the proposed new laws with alarm are remembering that clothes of any sort are described as a waste of time by Dean Inge of Saint Paul's Cathedral, London.

Ten years of a woman's life is spent in putting on and taking off her clothes, according to Dean Inge. "All in all," he continued, "clothes are the cause of an unredeemable waste."

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

ONE of the worst pests in this country is the guy who jumps into your automobile and says, "Gee, this is a beautiful car you've got, let me drive it, will you?"

YOU let him drive it and then he finds lamp posts you never knew were in town.

SURE, he knows how to drive a Cadillac—his brother used to own a Ford.

MAYBE he strips the gears, but they're underneath the car where it won't show.

HE kills the engine and a street car smashes into you. He laughs and says, "We ought to be glad it wasn't a train."

THEN he drives in the wrong direction and the traffic cop gives you a ticket. All the pest has to say is, "It's too bad this didn't happen yesterday, because I could have gotten you out of it then."

HE tells you he has a friend who knows the chief of police, but he can't do you any good because he got put in jail this morning for speeding.

THEN he'll say, "Don't worry. It'll only cost you ten or fifteen bucks."

IF you try to take the wheel away from him he gets fore.

HE says, "My brother-in-law owns a repair shop, and if I bust your car he'll give you ten percent off your bill."

BUT he'll tell you what a cautious driver he is, and you'll believe him. He's been so careful so far that he hasn't missed a thing.

THE only people he hasn't run over yet are you and your wife and that's because you happen to be in the car.

VISITS HOME ARE TOO INTIMATE FOR YOU TO TAKE OUTSIDERS WITH YOU.

When you go to see the "old folk" after an absence of some time, do not take some person, whom they do not know, with you.

Mother likes to feel that she has you and your family as guests.

Dad wants to feel that he can be himself, not "company-mannered" all the time.

Your parents have many questions to ask you which are too intimate for a third party perhaps.

At any rate they want to be able to talk freely with you and have you do the same, and your friends take up so much of your time.

Even trivial things are important to father and mother. They do enjoy having you explain and tell them everything which interests you even in its smallest detail.

Mother would express herself so much better to your own satisfaction if you were alone with her to tell all the little confidential news.
